GIRL HURLS SELF IN PATH OF DEATH TO SAVE BROTHERS

Heroic Young Woman
Succeeds in Shoving 2
Young Boys to Safety,
But Dies Under Wheels.

DRIVER OF TRUCK HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Candlewick Spread Line
Shields the Tragedy
From Mother's Gaze.

A 14-year-old girl lost her life in a loyal dash into the Dixie highway yesterday afternoon to save her two small brothers from death under the wheels of a fast-traveling furniture truck.

A clothesline display of hand-made candlewick bedspreads, on which the child had worked, cloaked the tragedy from her mother.

The heroic victim, who was returning in a bus from school with four brothers and a sister, was Oma Davis, daughter of John D. Davis, farmer living in a small white house beside the highway two miles north of Resaca. The truck, from whose path she shoved her brothers, struck her, the impact throwing her 70 feet down the road.

It was the first fatal accident of the year on the section of highway between Marietta and Ringgold which had claimed 32 lives within six months.

As the bus, operating from the Central Consolidated School of Gordon county, stopped opposite the Davis home, the Florida-bound truck, declared by state highway patrolmen to have been driven by C. V. Wellman, 45, of Danville, Ind., was seen in the distance.

Three of the smaller Davis children, George 6, Johnny 8, and Bertha 11, alighted from the rear of the bus and started across the road. Bertha went directly across to the other side safely, but the two boys walked more slowly.

The truck drew nearer, Oma, who had been waiting beside the bus with her brothers, Oscar, 16, and Ed 17, sensing the danger, dashed suddenly forward to hurry them to safety.

The small boys reached the other side, but the truck driver was unable to avoid striking their protector.

Wellman stopped his machine as quickly as possible. Officers H. W. Beckham and P. C. Peacock, of the Cartersville station of the state patrol, declared, and hurriedly ran to the child. She was dead.

So quickly did the accident occur that only the oldest brother, Ed, actually witnessed it.

Attended by all of her family, the child was put hurriedly into an automobile and taken to Calhoun, nine miles south, in the vain hope of restoration.

Wellman was arrested by the state patrolmen, who quickly reached the scene, and was being held last night without bail in the jail at Calhoun on charges of manslaughter and failing to stop for a school bus as required by state law.

The highway, U. S. No. 41, has been one of the most dangerous in Georgia, requiring special vigilance by authorities. Lon F. Sullivan, assistant director of the state

CANDLER TO SEEK MATTHEWS POST

Purge of George Men Is Seen With Tripple Succeeding
Cox as Starter.

Realignment of federal patronage to punish office-holding backers of Senator Walter F. George in his successful resistance to President Roosevelt's purge resulted yesterday in the following rapid-fire developments:

1. Scott Candler, mayor of Decatur and acting Georgia manager of RFC, was nominated at a mass meeting to succeed the late Charles A. Matthews as commissioner of DeKalb county and will resign probably today to make the race, set for January 31.

2. W. D. Tripple, of Cedartown, Polk county legislator, was slated to become United States marshal for the northern district of Georgia when and if General Charles H. Cox is replaced.

3. Zell McGee, of Elberton, who about two months ago succeeded Frank B. Vanstony as secretary-treasurer of the Georgia State Highway Board, resigned from that post and was slated to succeed Candler or to become connected with the Atlanta office of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

4. W. L. Miller, chairman of the highway board, announced that McGee will be succeeded by O. G. Glover, of Canton.

5. Lawrence S. Camp, Roosevelt protegee for the Georgia senatorial toga, said in Washington that he went there to attend a farewell dinner given to former Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, but Camp was accompanied by a number of his followers, including Kenneth A. Campbell, of Atlanta, and McGee. This gave additional credence to reports that an immediate shake-up in Georgia patronage is in prospect. Campbell's name has been mentioned persistently for several federal posts.

Jury Indicts Jack Benny As Smuggler

Greatly Excited Comedian
Proclaims His Innocence to Reporters.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Jack Benny, radio comedian, was indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges of transportation, possession and smuggling of $2,100 worth of jewelry.

He pleaded not guilty and was ordered held in $1,000 bail. Indicted with Benny, who flew here from Hollywood last night, was Albert N. Chaperau, international "mystery man," who was convicted yesterday on another indictment charging him with the smuggling of gowns into this country.

Benny requested an hour to raise bail. His trial was set for January 24. His indictment came within two hours after he took the witness stand to testify before the grand jury. He appeared nervous on the stand, gesticulating repeatedly with both hands and chewing at a long cigar.

Each of the three counts in the indictment against Benny carries a maximum penalty of two years in prison and $5,000 fine.

Benny later told reporters, "I am utterly amazed that I should be accused in this matter. I have always said that in order to be indicted it was necessary to be guilty of some criminal intent."

"Notwithstanding the fact that my attorneys have explained to me that an indictment is equivalent only to an accusation and may be based on circumstantial evidence, it seems to me to be a terrible thing that a citizen who has not intentionally or knowingly committed any wrong should have an indictment lodged against him, even though he may subsequently have his day in court and prove his innocence."

WILEY L. MOORE, JAMES C. MALONE GIVEN BANK POSTS

Named Directors of Fulton and First National as Four Leading Atlanta
Institutions Reorganize.

BUSINESS REPORTS FULL OF OPTIMISM

Other Officers Also Advanced, Two New Vice Presidents Advanced.

Wiley L. Moore was elected a member of the board of directors of Fulton National Bank, and James C. Malone was named a director of the First National Bank yesterday as Atlanta's four leading banking institutions presented optimistic business reports at their annual stockholders' meetings.

Moore, one of Atlanta's leading businessmen, is president of the Wofford Oil Company. Malone, also a young business leader, is vice president and director of the Retail Credit Company.

Other highlights of the reorganization meetings included promotion of Frank W. Blalock, vice president of Fulton National Bank, to the executive vice presidency, and Garnett C. Evans, cashier to vice president and cashier.

Officers Advanced.
Shareholders of the First National Bank also advanced two of the bank's officers to vice presidents, one to assistant vice president, created two new assistant cashiers and elected a new auditor.

Frank T. Davis and J. Arch Avery Jr., formerly assistant vice presidents, were made vice presidents. C. W. Curry, former auditor, became assistant vice president, while Fay E. Mewborn, active auditor for the past six months, was named auditor.

C. Talmadge Hardman, for the past several years manager of the First National's monthly repayment loan department, and Paul Bowles, manager of the bank's F.H.A. mortgage loan department, were named assistant cashiers.

Moore, of Wrightsville.
A native of Wrightsville, Moore began his business career in 1912 as an oil salesman at Macon.

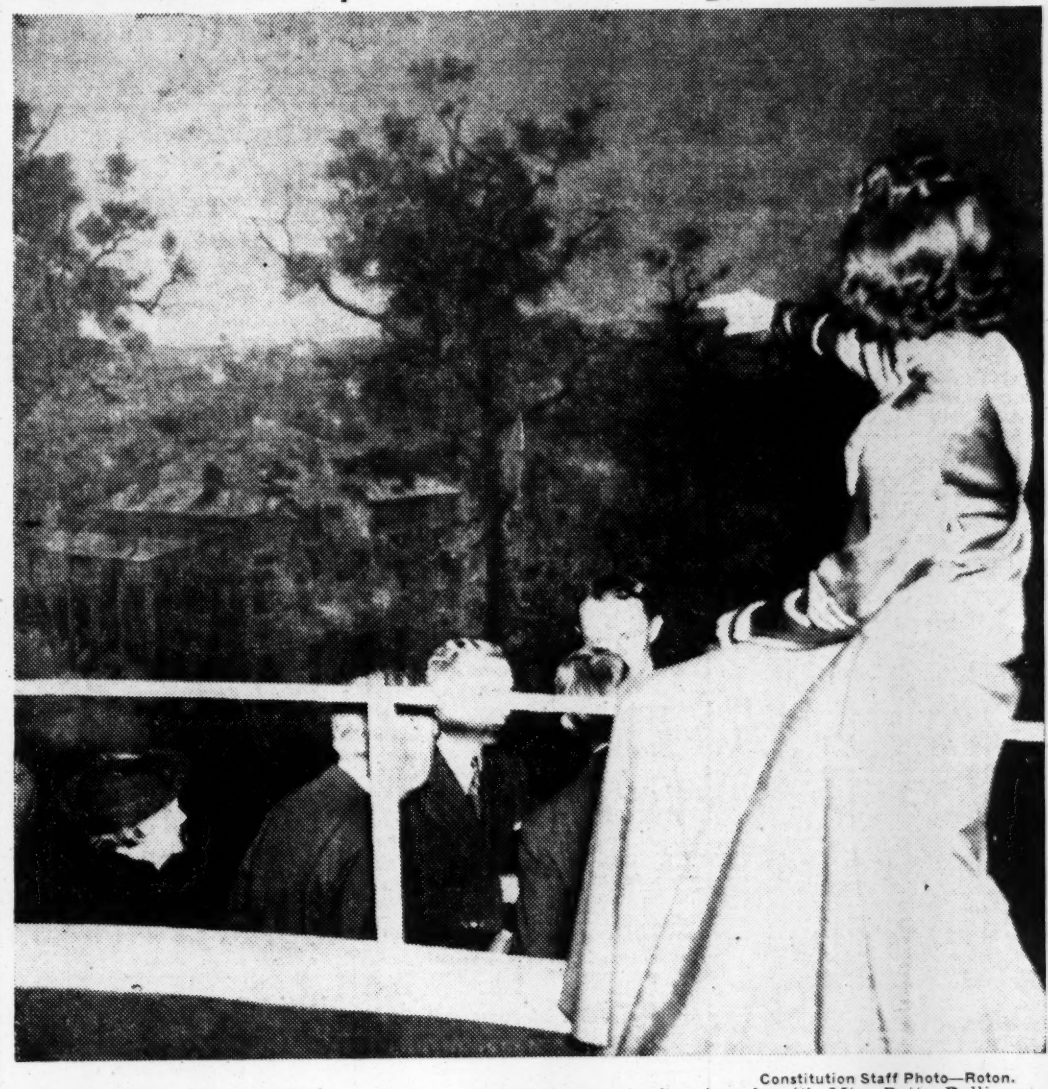

In 1925 he was appointed president of the Wofford Oil Company and is also president of the Pure Oil Company of the Carolinas and president of the Pure Oil Company of Tennessee. In addition he is a director in Eastern Air Lines, member of the national advisory committee of the New York World's Fair, and chairman of the board of directors of the Southern Life Insurance Company.

Malone, a native of Monticello, came to Atlanta in 1905 and became a member of the Retail Credit Company. He has served with the organization in many capacities in different parts of the country.

In 1923 he became junior vice president in Atlanta and in 1925 was elected vice president. He also is a director of the Retailers' Commercial Agency and the

New Platform Improves View of Lighted Cyclorama

Here is the raised platform of the improved Cyclorama in Grant park with Miss Betty Bollinger, seated on the railing, pointing to one of the vivid scenes of the painting. Standing on a lower platform are Mayor Hartsfield and others who attended a private showing of the painting last night.

Lighted Painting, Other
Improvements Draw
Praise at Night Preview

Several hundred Atlanta men and women, including Governor Rivers, last night attended a private showing for the press of the newly lighted painting of the Battle of Atlanta, housed in the Cyclorama in Grant park.

Members of the audience were invited guests of Mayor Hartsfield, city council and the park board. The mayor, George I. Simons, general parks manager, members of council and city officials served generally as hosts.

The private showing was a "send off" for the renovated Cyclorama, which will be opened to the public at 8 o'clock this morning.

Due to the new lighting—which brings out all details of the world-famous painting—the Cyclorama may be viewed now at night.

Renewed at a cost of approximately $40,000, it will be open daily and Sunday from 8 o'clock a. m. until 10 o'clock p. m. A staff of lecturers will serve visitors.

Improvements include a raised platform, giving an unobstructed view, musical effects and a sound-proof ceiling.

The audience last night applauded the improvements after C. J. Bailey and James M. Hall, lecturers, gave brief lectures. Mayor Hartsfield, Faber A. Bollinger and others also spoke briefly and invited the public to the official opening this morning.

U. S. Ambassadors Say War Will Start Before Summer

Kennedy and Bullitt Warn Secret Session of Congressional Leaders That Italy's Demands Will Bring Armed Conflict.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(UP)—General European war before summer over Italy's demand for French colonies was predicted today by the American ambassadors to France and Great Britain in secret testimony before congressional committees which will weigh President Roosevelt's $2,000,000,000 national defense program. It was learned from an unimpeachable source that Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to the Court of St. James, and William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, informed a joint executive session of the house and senate military affairs committee they believed a general conflagration inevitable.

They pictured France as unwilling to go further in the "appeasement" policy formulated jointly with Great Britain at the Munich meeting with Germany and Italy, the source said, and believed that despite the current British doctrine of "Peace at any price" the Chamberlain government will be drawn into the war as the natural ally of France.

Questioned at great length by committee members, Kennedy and Bullitt were said to have given frank answers on all points but refrained from mentioning American policy except to express belief that this nation would not be drawn into the conflict immediately.

The extraordinary joint session of the committees was held as Mr. Roosevelt prepared to write his national defense message which he said he will not send to congress before Thursday. The message will outline immediate needs for expanded naval and shore facilities and the urgent necessity of increasing the nation's military air strength.

The appearance of Bullitt and Kennedy before the military affairs committees was unusual. Ordinarily, diplomatic reports by American envoys on international politics are made before the congressional committees on foreign affairs. In view of the President's rearmament plans, however, their testimony was especially significant since it lent weight to the chief executive's recent warning that the Munich conference had not assured peace.

Both envoys, together with Hugh R. Wilson, United States ambassador to Germany, were summoned home by Mr. Roosevelt recently to report on the Euro-

Platform at Capitol;
Parade Will Follow.

Stealing the thunder from administration foes, Rivers leaders in the general assembly yesterday put through the house a resolution calling for a full investigation into charges of extravagance in the operation of the state government, pressing the inaugural address of the Governor today in which he is expected to call for retrenchment but at the same time to ask for completion of his far-flung economic program.

The resolution for the inquiry was steered through the house by Representative Frank Gross, of Stephens county, Rivers floor leader, after Representative Randall Evans, of McDuffie county, anti-administration leader, had offered a series of bills to abolish what he termed needless boards and bureaus.

Will Take Oath Today.

Meanwhile, the Governor prepared his inaugural address, scheduled for noon today. He will take the oath on a platform erected on the Washington street side of the capitol and immediately launch his speech. Observers predicted that he would pledge an economical administration but at the same time would call for measures designed to carry to completion his program of expanded state services which previously has been approved by the legislature and which the people have approved four times.

The chief executive will be given

$5,000 IS MARKED FOR RECREATION BY CITY COUNCIL

County Is Called Upon to Make Similar Appropriation To Assure Federal Aid of $37,000.

Council's finance committee yesterday tentatively approved a $5,000 allocation in the 1939 finance sheet as the city's share of a recreational program in which the federal government is expected to expend about $37,000. It also called on Fulton county to provide a like sum needed as a local contribution to insure the federal outlay.

A large delegation of citizens urged the city to provide the entire $10,000, but members cited the fiscal plight of the municipality.

Scores were heard. Especially strong was a delegation from the North Fulton Civic League, urging establishment of a playground near the dividing lines between the third and fifth wards.

A subcommittee of Aldermen Ed A. Gilliam and Councilmen Cecil Hester and Frank Wilson was named to consider exchanging unused city property for a suitable site.

Mrs. Stephen B. Ives, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, urged by letter that the city provide the entire $10,000.

$11 for a Lone Kiss Paid by Motorist

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 10.—(P)—Judge Charles J. Karabell placed a cash value of $11 today on a kiss which State Police saw Clyde Bailey, 27, give a woman companion while driving in heavy traffic.

"Was that kiss worth $11?" asked the judge.

Bailey did not reply.

"Well, that's what it's going to cost you," ordered the court.

PROGRAM PLANNED BY CIVIC LEAGUE

McClelland To Name Morningside Committee.

Committees to supervise the program for the ensuing year of the Morningside Civic League will be announced at the next meeting of the organization Monday, February 13, Ellis McClelland, newly elected president, announced yesterday.

President McClelland, who succeeded Dr. Stephen C. Reed as head of the civic group, said he now was considering committee personnel.

Serving as officers of the club together with President McClelland are S. B. Gaston, first vice president, J. C. Deavors, second vice president, M. S. Eaves, secretary, and Paul Richardson, treasurer.

The new president is a prominent attorney of the city and a brother of John S. McClelland, solicitor of the Fulton county criminal court, and of Judge Ralph McClelland, municipal court judge.

HUMANE SOCIETY INSTALLS OFFICERS

Help Provided 7,000 Animals in 1938; Hopkins New President.

Herbert Z. Hopkins was installed as president of the Atlanta Humane Society yesterday at the monthly meeting held in the Chamber of Commerce building.

Named and installed to serve with Hopkins were Josiah T. Rose, first vice president; Mrs. Stacy E. Hill, second vice president; Mrs. Paul Dixon, secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Alfred Jones, recording secretary.

Members of the board elected were Mrs. Harold T. Patterson, Mrs. J. P. Stevens, Mrs. Fannie Durand Williams, Mrs. Frank Quentien, Mrs. John O. Donaldson, Mrs. Francis Abreu, Mrs. M. H. Dillard, Mrs. V. C. Plant, Mrs. Katherine T. Weathersbee, Mrs. M. H. Grace, Mrs. R. C. Lotspeich, Miss Elise Boylston, Meyer Regenstein, Julian Boehm, Samuel Rothberg, Trammell Scott and Cecil Alexander.

It was announced that in 1938 more than 7,000 animals had been cared for at The Shelter on Howell Mill road, which is maintained by the society. Plans are under way for the enlargement of the grounds at the home.

PUPPETS TO PERFORM ON DOWNTOWN STREET

"Marionette Moviettes," a theater-on-wheels now on a tour of the United States, will give three performances in front of the Grand theater today.

The puppet show is sponsored by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer motion picture studios.

The performances will be at 2:30 and 6:30 o'clock. A special performance will be given at the Scottish Rite hospital at 12:30 o'clock.

Through use of the latest technical devices and equipment, sound tracks from actual productions such as "Sweethearts" are given by the puppets, who are made up to resemble the Hollywood stars.

CHAMBER DIRECTORS, GRIFFIN, Ga., Jan. 9—Members of the Chamber of Commerce of Griffin and Spalding county have selected seven members of the board of directors for the coming year.

UAW HEAD DEMANDS OUSTER CONVENTION

Martin Calls for Showdown With Foes in Union Leadership.

DETROIT, Jan. 10.—(P)—Homer Martin, charging that a "union within a union" had served the interests of the Communist party, called for a showdown tonight with his foes in the CIO United Automobile Workers.

He asked the UAW international executive board, controlled by men who have threatened to oust him from the presidency, to call a special convention by March 1 "to terminate once and for all the factional war in the union."

Martin, who long has been at odds with leaders of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, demanded dissolution of a UAW-CIO co-ordinating committee set up to arbitrate factional disputes. He reiterated his demand that the UAW be autonomous, "an equal among equals."

Not only Martin's position as president of the automobile union, but also the offices held by his opponents in the UAW would be at stake in the special convention.

"If the membership does not want me as president of the union I am prepared to tell the membership of the union tell me this," Martin said at a special meeting of the board today.

LAWYERS' CHOICE IS FRANKFURTER

Professor Felix Frankfurter, nominated by President Roosevelt to the supreme court, has for nearly two years been the leading choice of American lawyers for appointment to the court, according to surveys by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

In February, 1937, the Institute polled a cross-section of the 175,000 members of the legal profession asking if there was anyone they would like to see appointed to the court. Professor Frankfurter received the largest number of mentions.

Last autumn, shortly after the death of Justice Cardozo, the survey was repeated. Again Professor Frankfurter was the top choice, receiving five times as many mentions as any other candidate.

UNIFORM CONTROL OF TRAFFIC URGED

Councilman White To Ask Standard Laws for Metropolitan Area.

City council Monday will be asked to initiate a movement for uniform traffic laws for metropolitan Atlanta. Councilman John A. White announced.

White said he will offer a resolution instructing Councilman M. C. Bolen, chairman of the Atlanta police committee, and Captain Jack Malcom, head of the traffic bureau, to agree with the cities of Decatur, East Point, College Park and unincorporated areas between them on standard traffic regulations.

"I already have conferred with the mayors of Decatur and East Point, and they agree that uniformity in regulations is desirable and would eliminate confusion," said White.

"Atlanta has a speed limit of 25 miles an hour, in Decatur and College Park it is 30, and in Hapeville and East Point it is 35. A standardized system also would eliminate confusion as to turns on red lights and other nagging details."

BOARD RE-ELECTS MRS. MARK TEMPLE

Governor Appoints Marvin Griffin to Library Group.

Mrs. Mark Temple, of Marietta, was re-elected chairman of the Georgia Library Commission at the annual meeting yesterday.

Miss Beverly Wheatcroft was re-elected secretary. Governor Rivers appointed Marvin Griffin, of Bainbridge, a member of the commission for a three-year term.

Other members are Mrs. L. L. Patten, of Lakeland, Mrs. J. Y. Swift, of Milledale, and Miss Ella May Thornton, state librarian and ex-officio member.

Constitutional? You Should Get at the Cause!

Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent trips to the medicine chest. "I just dose up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't "get over" at all—until they get at the cause of the trouble!

Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you eat only what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that fits you, your ticket is a crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

SURVEY GIVES LIE TO GERMAN SCORN

Gallup Poll Shows Public Supports Roosevelt in His Denunciations.

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—Recent statements in the German press have declared that President Roosevelt's attacks on dictatorships and the totalitarian governments do not represent the sentiments of a majority of the American people.

In the last year the American Institute of Public Opinion has conducted surveys of public sentiment on many aspects of the dictatorship issue, and has found that the great majority of American voters see eye to eye with the administration.

The most recent studies found widespread resentment of the Nazi treatment of Jews and Catholics in the Reich and showed that American disapproval of Nazi policies has reached the point where 61 per cent of the voters favor a boycott of German-made goods.

Neutral Till 1938.

The public's attitude toward Germany was comparatively neutral, Institute studies found, up to the time of Hitler's seizure of Austria early in 1938. Prior to that event a large majority of voters (62 per cent) said they thought America would be able to stay out of a European war.

But after the Austrian coup, nearly half of the voters—46 per cent—said they thought the United States would have to fight Germany again within its lifetime.

The unpopularity of Germany was further increased by the Czecho-Slovakian crisis of last summer which led to the Munich agreement. Tests taken shortly after the parley found a sharp public reaction to the "deal" which the democratic powers had made with the dictators at Munich.

Other studies found a great distrust by the American public of Hitler's promises, for 92 per cent of voters said they did not believe the Fuehrer's statement that he has "no more territorial ambitions in Europe."

Accord Is Reached In Boston Strike

Agreement Reached After Truck Driver's Helper Dies of Beating.

BOSTON, Jan. 10.—(P)—Governor Leverett Saltonstall tonight announced an agreement in the death-marked strike of 5,000 truck drivers which for six days has paralyzed the movement of foodstuffs and other motor freight in this New England area.

Negotiators for the employers and the strikers had "agreed upon their differences," the Governor said, adding that ratifications would be sought as soon as possible from the major bodies on both sides.

His announcement came shortly before midnight, while specially armed police patrolled Boston's crowded freight terminals in an effort to prevent a recurrence of the violence that was marked by the death of a truck driver's helper earlier in the day.

John Pimental, 50, of Newport, R. I., died at the side of the Providence highway in Sharon after the occupants of three automobiles pulled him from the cab of a truck and beat him.

Candler was the only nominee. It was reported last night from Washington that Candler's resignation already is on file with RFC officials and is ready for immediate service once the President turns thumbs down on Candler's reappointment.

His resignation is undated, but will be filled in probably today, since it is reported that Candler already has asked to be relieved to make the commissioner's race and to prevent embarrassment to any of his friends in official positions.

Leo T. Barber, Moultrie highway contractor and banker, also is mentioned prominently as a possible successor to Candler. He has the backing of Judge Waldo DeLoach, of Moultrie, a leading Camp backer.

Governor Appoints Marvin Griffin to Library Group.

Mrs. Mark Temple, of Marietta, was re-elected chairman of the Georgia Library Commission at the annual meeting yesterday.

Miss Beverly Wheatcroft was re-elected secretary. Governor Rivers appointed Marvin Griffin, of Bainbridge, a member of the commission for a three-year term.

Other members are Mrs. L. L. Patten, of Lakeland, Mrs. J. Y. Swift, of Milledale, and Miss Ella May Thornton, state librarian and ex-officio member.

EPISCOPAL BISHOP ELECTED.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 10.—(P)—The upper Episcopal diocese of South Carolina elected the Rev. John J. Gravatt, of Staunton, Va., bishop today after voting against reuniting with the South Carolina diocese.

Mayor of Swainsboro, is understood to be slated to succeed Howell Coffey, of Statesboro, as collector of the port of Savannah.

John Allen Dunaway, attorney, presided at the opening of the Decatur meeting, and turned the gavel over to Judge Davis.

Constitutional? You Should Get at the Cause!

Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent trips to the medicine chest. "I just dose up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't "get over" at all—until they get at the cause of the trouble!

Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you eat only what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement.

If that fits you, your ticket is a crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the "bulk" you need plus the great intestinal tonic, vitamin B.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ARKWRIGHT HEADS GRAND OPERA DRIVE

Committee Seeks Guarantee of $100,000 To Assure Performances in April.

Preston Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, yesterday was designated to head a committee of Atlantans who will initiate a drive to return grand opera to Atlanta in April.

Meeting in the city council chamber, the group selected Jesse Draper and Victor Lamar Smith, also to serve. The committee was authorized to add others to expedite the program.

A minimum guarantee of $57,000 is necessary, it was explained by Mayor Hartsfield, who presided.

Arkwright's committee will seek to obtain a guarantee of at least $100,000 in order to prevent any material loss in the event ticket sales fail to produce the $57,000 needed.

If plans materialize, four operas will be given beginning April 10 or 17. There will be three night performances and one matinee.

Among those present were Mrs. John B. Guerry, president of the Georgia Federation of Music Clubs; Hugh Richardson, George Moore, James de Jarnette and Helen Knox Spain.

TOURIST TO HEAD 'TOMORROW' CLUB

Election of Eli Tourist as president of Light of Tomorrow Club was announced yesterday by Alice Benator, secretary.

Others chosen included James Benbenisty, vice president; Morris Pina, second vice president; Miss Benator, secretary and Elizabeth Benbenisty, treasurer.

Joseph S. Crespi was re-elected director. The club's annual banquet will be held January 31.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods of which you are unable to get the most out of them, your stomach often pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or even stomach ache. You feel sour, sick and upset.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes three little blue capsules called Tonsline for indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in no time and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one of the best secrets in medicine.

When Colds Cause SORE THROAT

When Poisons Slow KIDNEYS and Irritate Bladder

Flush Them Out For 35 Cents

Go to your druggist today and get this safe, swift and harmless diuretic and stimulant—ask for Gold Medal Haarem Oil Capsules and start at once to flush kidneys of waste matter saturated with acids and poisons.

That's a quick and effective way to help bring about more healthy kidney activity and relieve that bladder irritation which often occurs during the cold, flu, fever and burning as well as restless nights.

Remember the kidneys often need flushing as well as the bowels, and some symptoms of kidney weakness (like, for instance, getting up often during the night, backache, shuffling gait, etc.) are due to sluggish kidneys.

But be sure and get GOLD MEDAL Haarem Oil Capsules—the original and genuine—right from Haarem in Holland—the price is small (35 cents), the good results will fulfill your expectations—(adv.)

WITNESSES INJECT JEWISH ISSUE INTO JUSTICE HEARING

Committee Irked by References to Frankfurter Who May Be Quizzed on 'Link to Communists'

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(P)—The confirmation of Felix Frankfurter as an associate justice of the Supreme Court was opposed at a senate hearing today by two witnesses who referred frequently to his Jewish birth and alien origins.

A third insisted that before any action was taken, a senate judiciary subcommittee should question Frankfurter on points of constitutional law involved in a court case which the witnesses recently lost.

Members of the committee, almost to a man, expressed impatience and irritation at the course the argument was taking. All the witnesses appeared at their own request. Tonight some members friendly to Frankfurter were considering calling the nominee to the witness stand to clear up one point in particular.

This was a contention made by George E. Sullivan, a lawyer and a writer on what he called "anti-subversive" subjects. He said that during membership on the national committee of the American Civil Liberties Union, Frankfurter had been associated with William Z. Foster, noted Communist.

Linked to Litvinoff.

Sullivan also said that in September, 1937, Frankfurter and Maxim Litvinoff, Russian foreign minister, were "elected to the 'Jewish Hall of Fame' among 20 greatest living Jews." He added that Frankfurter made no protest.

"If Litvinoff and Frankfurter belong to the same group," he said, "surely neither of them belongs on the supreme court."

Collis Redd, when asked about the membership and officers of the Constitutional Crusaders of America, which he said he represented, announced:

"I am the whole works, myself. I appointed myself a committee to combat the evils of this government."

Couple To Mark 59th Anniversary

When Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Quick, of 1464 Beattie avenue, S. W., celebrate their 59th wedding anniversary Friday, January 20, they can boast of an unusual record for church attendance.

During the 12 or 13 years they have been living in Atlanta, the couple has never missed a church service at the First Christian church, at Trinity avenue and Pryor street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Quick are 83 years of age and still active in affairs of the community as well as the church. They were married in Indianapolis, Ind., and came to Atlanta from Pittsburgh.

R. L. Cooney, W. V. Crowley, Garnett C. Evans, W. B. Haley, Clarence Haverly, William T. Healey, Bolling H. Jones Jr., Thomas C. Law, Calhoun McDougall, J. R. Mobley, Frank G. North, Charles S. Reid, Hugh Richardson Jr., Edward D. Smith, Marion Smith, J. E. Skaggs, Simon S. Selig and F. O. Stone.

The First National Bank's report for 1938 showed net earnings of $911,556.08. Regular dividends paid during the year amounted $540,000 and two extra dividends amounting to $216,000 also were paid. A total of $81,929 was added to the surplus and undivided profits, and $73,628 transferred to reserves.

Deposits Increase.

Deposits, which on December 31 amounted to $104,903,989.02 were reported approximately $18,900,000 more than a year ago. Increases also were reported in the volume of the trust department and in the number of the institution's shareholders, which total 2,067. During December, $50,000 was paid as extra compensation to officers and employees.

Reporting for the Fulton Bank, President Clay said the bank closed the year with more than $34,000,000 on deposit, an all-time high for the bank and an increase of nearly $5,000,000 over 1937.

"Our earning assets were increased more than $3,000,000 during the year," he said. "Our bond account shows an increase in government securities, and is carried on our books at approximately $200,000 less than the market value."

He pointed out the bank earned in excess of $25 a share on common stock for the year and for the third successive year a $2 extra dividend on common stock was declared.

Sees Surplus Gain.

During 1939, the bank expects to increase its surplus to $1,000,000, Clay said. He added:

"Again we face a new year with renewed hope, believing that strides made in building and construction and in retail business will be sustained on a satisfactory basis."

Speaking for the Trust Company of Georgia, Thomas K. Glenn, chairman of the board, described business during 1938 as being "satisfactory and well in line with the previous year." He said the company's business in every department had grown during the year and expressed hope 1939 would prove "equally satisfactory."

The board of directors also includes Robert Strickland, president, and Dameron Black, vice president, secretary and treasurer. Meeting in Savannah, stockholders of the Citizens & Southern National Bank re-elected all directors. All officers were likewise re-elected as well as officials of the various offices in the state.

COUNTY PETITIONED TO ASSUME RELIEF

Mayor of East Point and Others Sign Letter to Commissioners.

Mayor J. R. Parham, of East Point, last night added his voice to a demand by the Social Planning Council that Fulton county assume the entire relief burden of Atlanta.

A letter to the commissioners signed by C. L. Emerson, president of the council; Alvin B. Bates, president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Leonard Haas, of the League of Women Voters, and W. Eugene Harrington, chairman of a special citizens' committee, renewed the demand after commission members had cited legal limitations to relief expenditures.

"The communication urged action before January 15, when a new crisis in relief may then force 'some ill-considered compromise as it has done in the past.'"

"I have given this matter serious consideration, and I am forced to the conclusion, without a doubt, that it is purely the duty of the counties," Parham said.

Commissioners and members of the Social Planning Council are slated to discuss the relief problem at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

CO-OPERATIVES AND HOURS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(P)—Some of the nation's leading bankers reported to their bosses—the stockholders—in annual meetings today and expressed restrained optimism about the country's business future, with conflicting opinions about government fiscal policies.

They also announced personnel changes.

Outstanding was the retirement of Jackson E. Reynolds as chairman of First National Bank of New York, leaving in full charge Leon Fraser, president, one of the youngest Wall Street bank executives.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, for some time in ill health, retired as a director of Chase National Bank.

Winthrop W. Aldrich, chairman of Chase, largest bank in the United States, and James H. Perkins, chairman of National City, second biggest, both commented on economies and expedients practised during 1938 because of dwindling commercial loans and increased investment in low-yielding government obligations.

But Walter E. Frew, chairman of the Corn Exchange Bank Trust Company, told his shareholders that he did not regard heavy investment in government bonds as a "peril."

He added:

MURPHY APPROVED BY SUBCOMMITTEE

Senate Group Does Not Call Former Michigan Governor on Appointment.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(P)—A senate subcommittee approved the nomination of Frank Murphy as attorney general today without a murmur of dissent and without propounding a single question on the former Michigan governor's attitude toward sit-down strikes.

A 15-minute session sufficed to accomplish what Washington had expected would be achieved only after lengthy hearings dealing with the Governor's role in the automotive troubles.

Senator Logan, Democrat, Kentucky, chairman of the judiciary subcommittee, said that no one asked for hearings and that all seemed anxious to go ahead and give their approval. It was learned that some Republican members, realizing that senate confirmation was assured, decided to let the issue pass rather than raise it and take a beating.

not worth anything, nothing else is."

Perkins explained that Richard Whitney's loans from National City had been reduced by sale of collateral from around $250,000 to about $50,000 and that it was hoped the balance could be similarly satisfied.

He also explained that he did not consider $1,400,000 owed by McKesson & Robbins to be insecure, and that advances of $2,000,000 to Spanish clients had been reduced to about $100,000.

His Job Was Adventure RAILROADER ENDS 50 YEARS' SERVICE

W. H. Anchors Has Been in Three Accidents.

W. H. Anchors, who began railroading in the days when the danger of the job attracted only the adventurous, was retired yesterday after 54 years' service on Georgia railroads. He had been with the Southern railway since 1900.

Anchors was in many train wrecks during his early railroading days but all the mishaps were on freights, he said. In 1912, the engine he was riding turned over and his left hand was so badly scalded that he lost three fingers. At the time of the accident, he was conductor on the Southern. Since then he has been in the baggage car service. Previously he had escaped injury in two head-on collisions.

Beginning as a section hand in 1884 on the Georgia railroad, Anchors worked up to brakeman, then switched to the Central of Georgia road where he served two years as brakeman and seven years as a conductor before becoming conductor on the Southern in 1903.

He resides now at 485 East Ontario avenue, S. W.

ROCK CHAPEL PLANS EIGHT-ROOM SCHOOL

Erection of an eight-room elementary school building and auditorium is being planned by the Rock Chapel district of DeKalb county. The project is expected to cost approximately $9,000, the money to be raised by a bond issue, authorized by residents in a recent election. Work will be done by the WPA.

Trustees of the school district are Nelson Sevringhaus, Byron Mitchell and H. G. Haynes.

LIFE HOUSE

Furnished and decorated by Davison Paxon Co.

VISIT THE LIFE HOUSE NOW

Open from 1:00 to 6:00 P. M.

DRIVE OUT TODAY. Go out Capitol Avenue to Milton Avenue. Turn left and follow Lakeview Avenue to Richmond Avenue—then just 3-10 of a mile to Davison's Life House.

Thousands of people who have seen the interior of this house are asking, "How can it be done so tastefully and completely for so little money?" Davison's couldn't build the house because building houses is not our business!

Davison's did furnish and decorate the house so beautifully and at such a low cost that everyone is talking about it, because furnishing and decorating houses is our business.

We are just as much interested and will give the same attention to any house or any room in anybody's house and do it in such good taste that you will be proud of it. We'll do it within the amount you want to spend—whatever that may be.

The services of our Decorating Staff are not restricted to expensive houses. These services are free to everybody.

Any room you may want to fix up even though you may want to use some things you now have and add just a few things to it, can be done with the help of one of our decorators whose names are listed below, just as attractively as the rooms in that "Life" house—because our decorators are specialists in that one thing.

We can't do the wife's work around the house and we can't do the husband's job but we can furnish and arrange rooms so that you will be proud of them and we can do it for an almost unbelievably small sum of money.

Come in and ask for any of the following people, all of whom had their finger in that "Life" house pie! They will be delighted to do the same thing, for you. Remember there is no charge for this service.

Ask for Mr. Lyons, Mr. Johnson, Mr. Barton, Mrs. Hall or Mrs. Ripley. One or more of these people is in the "Life" house every day and you can make appointments with them at the "Life" house or see them in the store or have them come to your home.

When you want plumbing fixed, you send for a plumber because he is a specialist in that line and can do the best possible job with plumbing! Why not use a specialist in Home surroundings when the services of Davison's experts costs you nothing?

AERONAUTICS AND PROSPERITY

There are many indications that, when this country finally emerges from the economic slough out of which it has been struggling for the past eight years, the aircraft industry will be the chief factor.

There are, likewise, various reasons why the southeast should be the section to profit most by developments in the manufacture of airplanes.

The history of depressions in the United States is marked by a striking similarity in the formula for recovery. In almost every case it has been the development of a new industry, or the enlargement of one previously but of minor significance, which has reawakened industry generally, has injected new vigor into the economic veins of the nation.

In 1895 there was a depression. Recovery in that day was largely due to the sudden popularity of the bicycle. This was attributed to the invention of the coaster brake, which made bicycling the popular recreation and convenience of millions.

Another slump in business occurred about 1907. The coming of the automobile and the rapid growth of the automobile industry lifted the country out of that economic depression.

In 1914, the year of the next downward swing of the business graph, the outbreak of the World War brought tremendous orders for war munitions to the factories of the United States, ending that period of industrial doldrums.

In 1922 there was another depression, but the radio came to bring with it hundreds of new factories and thousands of new jobs in the manufacture of receiving sets, in their distribution and sales and in all the ramifications of broadcasting.

Now, with the nation still fighting to get out of the depression which began in 1929—although we have already come far on the recovery road—there is still the need for something new in industry, some invention or development, which shall provide the impetus to lead us back into the full sunshine of plentiful jobs for those who will work, of bulging pay envelopes, booming factories and prosperous people in every class of activity.

President Roosevelt has asked that 20,000 young Americans be trained, annually, as airplane pilots, in order that this nation may have ready, at all times, the necessary man power for the great fleets of the air that would be needed should a foreign enemy ever attack these shores.

For every pilot who takes to the air, ten ground men, in maintenance crews, etc., are needed. These, too, must be trained. Thus if the Presidential goal of 20,000 new pilots a year is reached, it means that 200,000 competent aviation mechanics and ground specialists must likewise be trained.

Today, almost all the airplane factories established in the United States are located within a small area in California. The plants which build airplane motors—there are only a scant handful—are located within another small area in the east. Both locations are pitifully vulnerable to attack by an enemy. Both are within easy range of enemy planes taking off from an airplane carrier, both are almost within range of gunfire from enemy warships off the coast.

It would appear to be rudimentary tactics to require a wide scattering of factories making airplanes, air motors and other essentials, in accordance with that ancient tactical fundamental, to disperse.

The ideal section for the establishment of the new factories which must be built if the enlargement of the nation's defensive forces of the air is to be made, is the southeast. Here there are no months of the year when severe winter, with its snow, interrupts the program of industry or of flight.

Here, easily accessible, are the great bulk of the materials necessary for the manufacture of planes. The southeast has the wood, it has the textiles and, at plants in Alabama and Tennessee, it has the aluminum and sources of other metal used. It has, at Birmingham, a potentially inexhaustible supply of fine steel.

Here, too, are the training schools which may most easily be expanded to provide the trained men needed. At Georgia Tech, in Atlanta, is the Guggenheim School of Aeronautics, already doing splendid work in a limited way, while Atlanta also boasts the Tech High School for Boys, already started on the job of providing both theoretical and practical work in aeronautical mechanics.

Nowhere in the country can finer human material be found. Youth of the southeast, eager, bright youngsters, are today securing their technical training in various institutions and then, perforce, going to other sections to find the jobs not available here.

Every factor demonstrates the wisdom of rapid expansion of aeronautics, in all its branches, as the new industry which shall not only provide the means for adequate defense of the country in time of future need, but which shall also lift the nation up the final steps of the economic climb out of depression into a new prosperity.

And the southeast is, by every consideration, the logical section for the greatest part of that aircraft industry expansion.

Capital? It can be secured for all such enterprises founded upon sound business principles. Perhaps there is not sufficient local capital, anywhere in the southeast, to provide all required. There is, however, plenty of capital, too long idle, in the country as a whole. Combination of local investment and the investments from other sections, should easily provide the financial means.

The government itself, facing new problems of armament and expansion of the defensive forces of the nation, should be a large contributor toward the total investment required.

But government, on the other hand, should give its greatest aid through a lifting of the burdensome restrictions on private enterprise which have, of recent years, so seriously retarded the flow of private capital, and should permit private industry to go to work for the economic benefit of the entire country.

And, to repeat, everything points to the aircraft industry as the logical, profitable and desirable industry through which the nation may enjoy new prosperity for all. With greatest benefit to the southeast, thus solving, too, that condition which President Roosevelt has dubbed the nation's "Number One Economic Problem."

PEACE ON THE SPANISH HORIZON?

Three times, now, Christmas has come and gone without getting the boys in Spain out of the trenches. The Franco drive to "wipe out Communism in western Europe," at one fell swoop, under the encouraging eye of Fascism, has, so far, come to naught. Loyalist Spain, which started from scratch, so far as an army and navy were concerned, has succeeded, time after time, in repulsing the combined forces of Italian, Moor and Spaniard at vital points. And the present offensive is on the verge of meeting a similar fate.

According to general reports the current Franco effort to capture Barcelona, or what's left of it after hundreds of murderous air raids, was intended to bring the rebel cause into such favorable position that belligerent rights would be granted by France and Great Britain. Mussolini, it is said, hopes to convince Chamberlain on this point during the present conference in Rome. Such a diplomatic victory would permit the blockading of Loyalist ports, a thing now denied, and the resultant threat of starvation, it is thought, would bring about a quick capitulation.

But the present failure, so far, to dislodge the Loyalists, the constant threat of revolt in the Rebel ranks and the quick Loyalist counter offensive have suddenly put the cause of Franco, Mussolini, et al., on the brink of disaster. Save by manipulation at the "appeasement" table in Rome, it seems, the Franco cause is lost. Peace may now come to Spain but, in all probability, not the kind of peace Mussolini has long risked a general European war to achieve, viz., the setting up of a Fascist state on the most strategic spot in Europe, if not in the world.

It is beyond comprehension that Chamberlain will yield to the demands of Mussolini for belligerent rights to Franco, thereby almost automatically bringing an Italian dominated Spain into being. By so doing he would be setting up a greater, and permanent, menace to British and French power both in the Atlantic and the Mediterranean.

The recent demand of the Mussolini-controlled press for more territory has convinced the British and the French people alike that the friendly hand of appeasement has been extended to the limit. If Chamberlain yields more he will return to England only to lose his office to a stronger man.

Furthermore, it is extremely doubtful if the people of Spain would, themselves, long submit to the Mussolini yoke. Patriotic, thinking Spaniards, both Loyalists and Rebels, are gradually coming into a realization that foreign domination, after centuries of independence, would be intolerable. The feeling is growing that the civil strife is a Spanish affair; that the Italians, Moors and other interlopers eventually must be driven out if Spain is to remain an independent nation. The constant unrest and threat of revolt in Franco's armies may be attributed to this feeling.

From any angle, however, it seems as if momentous events are on the verge of taking place. Peace and independence, it is to be hoped, will soon fall to the lot of the Spanish people.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

COMPENSATORY SPENDING WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—There are several reasons why this year's budget message is likely to become a fiscal landmark. For example, the President has been privately inclined to compensatory spending since 1934, when the English economist, John Maynard Keynes, visited this country and revealed to him the beauties of the doctrine. Now, for the first time, his inclination has become belief, and he has publicly confessed his faith.

But not the least historic aspect of the message is the fact that its tax recommendations will just about exhaust the upper brackets as a source of revenue. The President merely stated that additional farm benefits and armaments would necessitate about $422,000,000 of new taxes. No specific taxes were proposed, but the Treasury already has its plans. They are for considerably higher levies on incomes from about $10,000 to $80,000 a year, and for higher levies and lower exemptions on inheritances.

It will probably be surprising, but it is true, that Treasury expects now that taxes on incomes above $80,000 have not only reached, but even actually passed, the point of diminishing returns. If it were politically practicable, they would suggest some revision of the top surtaxes. As it is, they have been driven into the last remaining "fertile field." If and when the new taxes are enacted, broadening the base and raising the basic rate will be the only way left to get real money by individual income taxes.

POLITICAL NATURALS The hope is to get $200,000,000-odd by the higher levies on $10,000 to $80,000 incomes, and the same amount from new inheritance levies. On the last returns income from $10,000 to $80,000 yielded $512,000,000 in government revenue. Therefore, the new levies will have to be rather steep, increasing the rate by an average of around 40 per cent. The precise nature of the inheritance tax plans is not known, but the current exemption of $40,000 in the estate and $40,000 of insurance can scarcely be preserved. Probably the basic rate will also have to be raised.

The Treasury plans fit in neatly with the President's announced philosophy that new taxes should be levied on the effects upon purchasing power. The proposed levies will hit only the comfortably off. No doubt it is a coincidence that they are also political naturals; 230,000 persons paid taxes on incomes from $10,000 to $80,000 on the last returns. And only 12,000 estates paid inheritance taxes. No great bloc of voters will be affected. No congressmen will be terrified, although many may be annoyed.

Prophecy on tax bills is a foolish venture. The celebrated soak-the-rich scheme, for example, was radically rewritten 24 hours before it was sent to The Hill. But the plans outlined above are those currently favored.

RELIEF AND TAXES Nor is it possible to predict what congress will do with the Treasury plans. The chairmen of the house and senate committees involved, Representative Robert L. Doughton, of North Carolina, and Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, have already declared that they would "go mightily slow" in approving new levies. They have intimated that they would wait to act until they could see the March tax collection figures.

Indeed, taxes promise to be one of the three most controversial matters in the budget, the others being the new spending theory and the proposed supplementary relief appropriation of $875,000,000. The history of the relief appropriation is also interesting.

A large appropriation was urged on the President by Harry L. Hopkins and his successor as WPA administrator, Colonel Harrington. It was approved, as necessary and advisable, both by Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. and Chairman Mariner S. Eccles, of the Federal Reserve Board. Nevertheless, the President knew that such a large request would be disagreeable to congress. Even now, only a few days after the disclosure, house leaders are planning to cut it by $200,000,000.

Cautiously enough, just such action may be welcomed at the White House. The relief strategy was outlined by Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, of New York, when he lunched with the President on December 30. He suggested that the relief request be more than liberal, and that congress then be permitted to cut it freely. He added that economizing congressmen would soon hear from their districts, which would strengthen the President's control over the law-makers, and help him with appropriations for the coming year. Of such incidents is politics made.

SILHOUETTES

By RALPH T. JONES.

Strut, strut, strut.
The girls are strolling,
Up and down the avenue;
Up, up, up.
The hills are rolling
For hat and coat and dainty shoe.
Work, work, work,
The boys are toiling,
In office, shop and labor crew;
Pay, pay, pay.
The wage despoiling,
To meet those bills as they fall due.

A Great Victory.
Let this be written on the record of my life. A great victory I have achieved. A personal triumph worthy of consignment to the archives of the century.

You have seen these young creatures, who strove on certain days of the week, through certain of the favorite luncheon emporiums of the city? They are models, displaying the latest modes in coats and dresses and gowns and hats and shoes. And enviable.

They display them for the benefit of the feminine sex. Always hesitate beside a table with women customers, and always have a lively, even though stereotyped, smile for the ladies who reveal indications of potential buyers.

But, in passing a strictly masculine table, said lovely models gaze straight ahead, sans smile, sans recognition, sans consciousness. It is as though the chairs occupied by the men are empty, empty.

Well, yesterday, believe it or not as you please, one of these models smiled at me, as I sat alone at my favorite table.

It was but a fleeting slip of the muscles of risibility. Just a passing, and unacknowledged, acknowledgment that here, after all, was a fellow human, a sentient being who might relish a little smile, even though of that sex on the plane of the worms.

Or, perhaps, the gal was smiling at me, not with me? No, no, no, to think of it, I didn't comb my hair before going to lunch yesterday.

Was that cockle out of place again?

Not a Sissy Game.
Way back yonder, in boyhood days, she came into being what was then a new game. We called it ping pong. Or table tennis. And there was a lot of alleged humor put out by the professional gagsters and writers of quipping paragraphs, all to the event that ping pong was a sissy game, suitable only for idish old maids and little children.

We played it on the dining room table and thought it lots of fun. Since those days there have been occasional indications, in the game, in church basements, Y. M. C. A. recreation rooms, on a rainy day at summer camp, etc.

Then, a few weeks ago, daughter put a table into the big basement room at her new house. And that table has been the center of attraction on our visits to the place. And I can't, for the life of me, see anything sissified in the game. If played as it should be, it requires a quick eye, agility and it makes not inconsiderable demands on nerves and muscles, after a few games.

Now, we are talking of putting a table into that spare room, upstairs, at home. But, so far, tentative inquiries as to cost of purchasing, or building, a proper table have been too great expense for the budget.

Is Atlanta Low In I. Q.?

The other evening listened to a radio broadcast of one of those "Questions and Answers" programs, staged at a local theater. The questions were asked of members of the audience, apparently selected at random.

And the low grade of intelligence displayed by nearly all of them, made us, at home, irritated. It seemed such a reflection on Atlanta, or, perhaps, the local intelligentsia, don't go to the movies. Anyway, time after time, the questioner just begged for the correct answer to his query, gave broad and broader hints, but all in vain. And such simple questions, most of them, too.

If that was a fair cross-section of Atlantans, we must be a city of dumbbells.

Twenty-Five Years Ago Today.

From the news columns of Sunday, January 11, 1914:

"Presidio, Texas, January 10.—The Mexican federal army, with its nine regiments, evacuated Ojinaga, Mexico, at 10 o'clock tonight. The triumphant rebel forces under General Francisco Villa immediately occupied the village. General Salazar, who was with Huerta's chief military commander, crossed the river and surrendered to Major McNamee, of the United States army."

And Fifty Years Ago.

From the news columns of Friday, January 11, 1869:

"Section 755, city ordinance, requires property owners to trim their trees eight feet from the ground. The commissioner of public works has his inspector issuing notices. Don't wait for him to come, he won't treat you to without his notice."

GOOD MORNING By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

THE VERY DAY.

The very day that the price of eggs was reduced, our hens started laying. Yes, sir, the very day. It does look like they might have started the day before or waited until the day afterward, but the very day that the price of eggs tumbled from 47 cents to 43 cents, I heard a strange sound down in the backyard that seemed to call up distant memories of many weeks ago, and when I rushed down to the chicken yard to satisfy my sense of curiosity, I found that it was actually the cackle of that bunch of stubborn sisters that had eaten their heads off several times since the last egg had been paid on account.

And, believe it or not, before the sun went down this Monday afternoon, I got four eggs! Four eggs from 20 hens that hadn't laid in weeks—to be exact, that hadn't laid since eggs went into the upper forties—four eggs on the very day that the price started down—quite, you will agree, is just like hens.

Now before you waste a single sheet of paper, not to mention the time and the postage, to write and tell me that I should have fed

This Morning

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"He heat her and he hit her, but he brought her better butter."

So ran the story of the big butter-and-egg man from the Middle West and the poor little girl from New York. Another poor little girl imposed on by the big butter-and-egg men lives in the South. Or, rather, she tries to live there, on the cotton that surrounds the seed that holds the oil that makes the margarine against which the butter-and-egg men of America have persuaded federal and state governments to discriminate.

Something for the South to get excited about as congress goes into its second week is margarine. For margarine is made largely of the cottonseed oil that comes out of the south, and if the federal government really considers this region a No. 1 problem, it owes one consideration, concession and justice to it, in the greater matter of margarine. It owes it relief from a monstrous federal tax which discriminates against margarine as against the other commodity. It owes it relief from excessive importations of foreign oils which continually disrupt the American market and drive down the American price. It owes it disapproval of state taxes levied to limit the sale of margarine.

If margarine were an impure or unhealthy product, then the government should prohibit its sale altogether. But margarine is not an impure or unhealthy product. It is accepted by physicians everywhere as entitled to a place in the kitchens and economies of America. It is the poor man's butter. To tax it, as Oscar Underwood declared 21 years ago, "to use the great taxing power of the government to destroy a food product," is the "special interest" of another food product. And it is to discriminate against the South.

The annual per capita consumption of margarine in the United States is about 2.1-2.2 pounds. In England, where there is no tax, the per capita consumption is about 20 pounds. If the United States were permitted to consume proportionately as much as England does there would be created a market for the oil of 5,000,000 additional bales of southern cotton each year. If we were permitted to consume as much as Denmark does the addition would be twice as great. Here is a tremendous market belonging to the South, the South is denied because of discriminatory taxes and unbalanced imports. Here is an economic injustice No. 1 to a region which has been called an economic problem No. 1.

Local patriotism makes different men think of different things. It makes Hugh Stanard, of the Asheville Citizen, think of buncombe. Recently we quoted a gentleman who said that the hope of the world is America, the hope of America is the South, the hope of the South is Virginia, and the hope of Virginia is Albemarle county. "All we could think of (when we read this)," declares Mr. Stanard, "was Buncombe, just Buncombe." In Webster's dictionary "Buncombe" is defined as empty talk (from Buncombe county, N. C.; county seat, Asheville). Needless to say, the word acquired its meaning long before Mr. Stanard came from Virginia to the justly famed North Carolina county. As a loyal summer son of Asheville, we wish to explain that nothing but a fear of being misunderstood stopped us from telling the Albemarle enthusiast that the real hope of the world is Buncombe.

them oyster shell and all the tonics and plenty of green stuff and some grain along with the mash, let me explain that they had all of that, and then some. And some one certain to say that if I had kept plenty of fresh water in the troughs that they would have laid at least once every day, and so forth. Well, I gave them H2O in overflowing abundance morning, noon and night.

But after all, I am not so upset about it. I'm just interested in knowing how they could time the things so perfectly. True, they might have been listening to the radio or reading the produce section of the papers—the garbage cans where we put the papers are not so far from the chicken yard. Anyway, they had the right day.

And some unkind guy is almost certain to call me up or write me a letter and advise that I give up the poultry business, leaving the field to the smart set that know how to catch their feathered sisters into providing "day old" eggs when the price is high, but I tell you now before you do it that I ain't going to take your advice. Who would sacrifice hearing a rooster crow for the mere satisfaction of saying that he's quit trying to raise his own eggs? Who would give up the privilege of having chickens fly up on your shoulder when you go to feed them, even if they do eat their heads off several times each year? I'm not, as long as I can afford it.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"PEACE. IT'S WONDERFUL." Disquieting reports came in yesterday morning's reports to the effect the "purge" was to be carried on in Georgia.

This came as something of a shock after having given an attentive ear to the President's Jackson Day dinner in which peace and party unity was the theme song. The President urged that the party start shooting at the enemy instead of one another.

Hence, it was something of a surprise to find the party guns reported aimed at the Messrs. Scott Candler and Charley Cox, both able and loyal Democrats.

This caused me to put in a strenuous sort of day seeking to obtain from Washington some definite word. Definite words from Washington not always are easy to obtain. Nevertheless one gentleman in the capital city did say this:

"There is no more purging planned unless it be Mr. Candler. There are plans to remove him. There is a chance that Charley Cox will be reappointed. If not," the gentleman said, "it will not be regarded as a purge but merely as failure to reappoint. This often has happened in years when there was no political friction within the party. Mr. Cox has a chance."

The gentleman then declared that the latest word in Washington was that Mr. Lawrence Camp, district attorney and a candidate last fall in the primary, is not dictating the Georgia patronage and will not. The word now is that no patronage not given the official okay by Senator Richard B. Russell and Governor E. D. Rivers will be confirmed for Georgia.

(Mr. Camp often has wished job hunters would not come to him, saying he was not the person who gave out federal jobs.)

"The administration," continued the gentleman, "apparently is very eager to have federal employees know there is to be no 'purge.' The only punishments which are planned are in cases which appointments have expired. There will be, in some cases, no reappointment. Other than that, no punitive measures are planned. There is to be no purge and the word has gone out to build up efficient departments and let the employees know there is no one snooping to find out how they voted last fall."

Mr. Candler is unruffled and unconcerned. As one of DeKalb's most popular and efficient citizens he recently has been elected mayor and now has a mass meeting of citizens urging him to be a candidate for office of county commissioner. In fact, he may himself retire for the campaign.

Mr. Cox took no part in the primary and failure to reappoint him would be fundamentally unjust.

Both are able and loyal party men and it is to be regretted the party leaders cannot recall the President's Jackson Day speech in which he called for the guns to be pointed at the enemy and not at fellow Democrats.

STATE BUDGETS! There was a most interesting Associated Press report yesterday morning emanating from the neighboring state of North Carolina.

It dealt with the state budget. North Carolina is to operate, unless the legislature changes it, and this is not anticipated, under a balanced budget of $154,514,899 to carry for the next two years. North Carolina has a program of education, health and social legislation. North Carolina's base pay for teachers is about $20 more per month than Georgia's.

North Carolina has an area smaller than Georgia's; North Carolina has a population about that of Georgia.

Georgia operates on a budget of about $49,000,000 per year. This includes federal funds. At present the departments are operating on about 55 per cent of that budget. Georgia seeks an additional $8,500,000. This would mean that in the next two years Georgia would spend a bit more than $100,000,000 against North Carolina's $154,514,899.

North Carolina expects no trouble in balancing the budget. North Carolina will spend that much on her program for no more people and on less land area. A form of sales tax enables North Carolina confidently to plan for that sort of budget, to contemplate a balanced budget and to expect no reduction in appropriations. All of which is not advanced as anything except an interesting development as Georgia's legislature meets to consider a budget out of balance and a reasonable program of service which needs financing.

South Carolina, Florida, Alabama and Tennessee, with fewer people and less area, all spend more for service than does Georgia.

NO QUARREL WITH ECONOMY There is, of course, no quarrel with economy. Any and all unnecessary bureaus and departments should be abolished. All possible economy of operation should be effected.

It is estimated that the state government inevitably operates with about 25 per cent inefficiency. This is costly. Yet no legislator has advanced legislation to bring about removal of this cost.

A civil service or merit bill would give to the state more efficiency at less cost and would enable the Governor and department heads to give their time to the state instead of listening to job seekers or reading mail from them.

There can be no real criticism of them for this failure. Patronage is so much a part of the political plans in America that it is difficult to remove it.

The average politician fears it would weaken him. Actually, if once installed, the civil service system would strengthen the politicians and give them longer political life.

It Is Never Difficult to Find Settlers for a Land Where Gold Is Discovered

By ROBERT QUILLLEN.

"I'll make you respect me," said the old-fashioned parent, "if I have to take the hide off of you." His reward was not respect, but only fear. Respect is earned by being respectable.

The natural impulse of any partisan, when his cause is attacked by enemies, is to fight back with the same kind of weapon. But there are causes which cannot use the weapons of violence without defeating themselves.

The western world laughed in derision when Japan explained her use of bombs and bayonets as an effort to win the good will and friendly co-operation of China, yet many of our own people are advocating a similar folly.

Realizing that democracy and Christianity are threatened as never before in modern times, their first reaction is a desire to meet force with force—to fight and destroy the enemies who have attacked their most sacred institutions.

Unfortunately, they are trapped by the nature of their cause. If they attempt to save or establish democracy

"ONE-WAY" OPPOSED FOR EDGEWOOD AVENUE.

Editorial Constitution: Traffic Officer Jack Malcom certainly has not made a study or investigation of conditions in traffic on the east side of Atlanta or he would not recommend one-way streets for Auburn avenue, Edgewood avenue and Decatur street.

In the first place it would break the traffic line of Edgewood avenue and Marietta street through the center of the city. This is the only real thoroughfare east and west through Five Points. Auburn avenue is not a thoroughfare, and Decatur street is very narrow and congested and cannot be widened.

If Mr. Malcom would have a white line drawn parallel with the curb on Edgewood avenue as they once had, to make parking closer to the curb and not zig-zag and jutting out into the street, then automobiles could be parked when another car was standing at the curb. There are street cars going in both directions. We really need trackless trolleys.

If our representatives in council would do a little improvement, such as widening of Edgewood avenue from Boulevard to Waverly way and cut out the bottle-neck, as John White, who represents part of this section in council, says in regard to the north side streets, can widen ten feet on each side in front of the two triangle parks at Delta place. One-hour parking should be extended to Wadell street to eliminate all-day parking on both sides between Howell and Randolph streets.

At the same time the above improvements would be of tremendous value to all east side residential sections. If Edgewood is made a one-way street, citizens of all the east side will be forced to return to their homes from the center of Atlanta, the auditorium, Grady hospital and the municipal market, by way of Auburn avenue or Decatur street, which will be detrimental to the residential sections of the east side, forcing down values of their homes and cause encroachment which will mean ruin.

The effect of a one-way traffic on Edgewood, Auburn and Decatur street will ruin the majority of business on these streets, that took years of hard work to build up and will deprive them of means of livelihood.

Our honest opinion is that one-way streets is not the solution of the traffic problem except for the very narrow ones. Surely the merchants of Atlanta do not want one-way streets.

If for no other reason, than in respect to the citizens, women and children who daily go to Grady hospital, auditorium and the municipal market, we cannot see why Edgewood avenue, above all the streets in Atlanta should be made a one-way street.

W. BROWN HAYES, President East Side Inter-Civic Association.

OPPORTUNITY IN GEORGIA

Editorial Constitution: Regarding the additional appropriation of $8,500,000 which, we are told, will be necessary to provide for the school and health program for our state, which was overwhelmingly voted in the last election, I am wondering if the average citizen realizes what will happen if this money is not forthcoming. In its last analysis, it will mean the burden will be laid upon the children of Georgia and those who are sick and dependent and unable to help themselves; it means that the education money will go only half as far, that our crippled children will continue to look hopelessly toward the future; that our dependent children will be curtailed; that our deaf children will suffer; that our young teenage boys who have fallen into the clutches of the law will continue to be housed with hardened criminals for lack of facilities for training in the way of right thinking and for useful citizenship and that our insane will continue to be inadequately cared for.

Whichever way we look at it, the bill will be paid, and it is up to us to decide whether it shall be through illiteracy and suffering or in a few tax dollars from good citizens of a state that put its helpless ones above every other consideration.

COUNTIES SEEK AID ON AD VALOREM TAX

Sixth District Commissioners Discuss Revenues at Conference.

MACON, Ga., June 10.—(AP)—A. J. Keith, president of the Georgia Association of County Commissioners, urged middle Georgia commissioners meeting here today to seek legislation giving counties power to retain all ad valorem taxes.

Mr. Keith, who became president of the association at the death of C. A. Matthews last week, was the principal speaker at a meeting of commissioners from the 16 counties of the sixth congressional district.

The meeting was one of a series being held by Mr. Keith, Tate Wright, association secretary, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Betty Peeler, assistant secretary, of Atlanta, for the purpose of organizing Georgia county commissioners in a drive to effect legislation which would permit counties to retain the 5 mills ad valorem tax levied for the state each year.

Mr. Keith said homestead exemptions provided for by the last legislature cost counties a net loss of between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000 last year.

The 5 mill state tax yields a revenue of between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000 each year, it was claimed.

LEAGUE OF VOTERS OPENS FUND DRIVE

Atlanta Women Will Hold First Report Luncheon on Monday.

Start of the annual drive for funds for the Atlanta League of Women Voters was announced yesterday by Mrs. Logan Bleckley Jr., finance chairman. First report luncheon will be held at 12:30 o'clock Monday afternoon at the headquarters. Officials are hopeful that the campaign will be completed within two weeks.

Captains participating include Mrs. Paul Ackery, Mrs. J. C. Blacklock, Mrs. Knowles Davis, Mrs. O. W. George and Mrs. J. J. Selvaage. Assistants include Mrs. Calvin Sanderson, Mrs. Emmett Quinn, Mrs. DeFord Smith, Mrs. J. M. L. Smith, Mrs. J. Fayette Butler, Mrs. Robert Sims, Mrs. J. D. Thomas, Mrs. Wheeler Simmons, Mrs. M. R. INQUEST ORDERED IN STURGIS DEATH

Scalded Body Found in Bath at Hotel.

Coroner Paul Donehoo will hold an inquest at 2 o'clock this afternoon into the death of George B. Sturgis, 44, parking lot operator, whose scalded, partly clad body was found Monday night in the bathtub of his room in a downtown hotel.

Officers who investigated said the circumstances indicated that death was caused by heart failure. The inquest will be held at the mortuary of Atwell & Lowndes. Services will be held at Thomson this morning, with burial in the Thomson cemetery.

Sturgis, a native and lifelong resident of Warrenton, had made his home here for the past year.

Bridge Fans To Hear Sharpsteen Discuss All Types of Responses

Capacity Crowds Expected at Three Sessions Today as Noted Culbertson System Authority Presents His Widely Acclaimed Outline.

Plans have been made to accommodate capacity crowds at today's three regular sessions of The Constitution's School of Bridge in the Atlanta Woman's Club when Harold Sharpsteen, The Constitution's noted Culbertson system authority, presents his widely-acclaimed outline for all types of responses under the heading "Traffic Lights in Bridge."

Special importance is attached to today's lesson by Atlanta bridge devotees interested in hearing the new 1939 requirements for game-forcing two trump takeouts and skip bids made at the three level. Full description of these latest Culbertson developments will be presented at all classes during the day, the morning session starting promptly at 10:30, the afternoon class at 2:30 and the night session at 8 o'clock.

At today's classes, Sharpsteen promises to supply players of all types with a simplified outline, which will aid them in quickly determining whether to respond to partner's opening bid with a non-forcing, one-round forcing or game-forcing trump raise, suit or Life Sentence Imposed on Blonde Waitress Also Sustained.

By The Associated Press.
The Georgia supreme court ruled today Harvey Nelson, Ware county roadhouse keeper, must die for the slaying of his 12-year-old son, J. C. Nelson.

The court also upheld a life sentence imposed on Verna Mae Fowler, blonde waitress, for her part in the crime.

They were convicted last summer after trials in which Nelson testified the Fowler woman and Mary Kent, another employee at Nelson's roadhouse, persuaded him to consent to the boy's death to collect $900 in insurance.

Nelson told the jury he and the women plotted the killing, that the latter drew straws to see who would do the actual slaying, and that Verna Mae Fowler lost and shot the boy to death.

WOOD IS ELECTED BY TAMMANY CLUB

Dr. Green Named First Vice President.

Clarence L. Wood was elected president of the Tammany Club last night at a meeting in the headquarters, 121 1-2 Luckie street. He succeeds J. H. Merritt, who was elected a director.

Other officers include Dr. Samuel Green, first vice president; Preston Sumner, second vice president, and J. G. Shankle, secretary-treasurer.

Directors elected included John A. Boykin, Samuel A. Massell, Judge Luther Z. Rosser, Earl M. Carmain, E. A. Minor, A. C. Ayers, R. F. Pennington, Mayor Hartfield, Cecil W. Hester, R. S. Lowrance, Dr. S. A. Ferlita, C. C. Mason, E. F. Vandivere, Dr. O. E. Collum, H. D. Gedley and Edgar Gunn.

Speakers last night were Major General George Van Horn Moseley and former Governor Eugene Talmadge.

AUTOPSY ORDERED IN BAXTER DEATH

Wife and Two Companions Arrested Here.

An autopsy will be performed this morning on the body of J. J. Baxter, 55, of a Central avenue address, who died at Grady hospital at 8 o'clock yesterday morning of wounds received a few hours earlier.

Mrs. Baxter and two companions were arrested on a blanket charge of "suspicion" pending completion of the investigation. They were taken in custody by Officers E. S. McEvans and C. R. Hensley.

Meanwhile, Officers J. D. Adams and L. T. Bullard, working independently, had reported the death as a traffic fatality. The inquest was requested by the office of Solicitor Boykin.

SUMTER MINISTERS FIGHT LIQUOR VOTE

Association Calls on County and City Authorities To Uphold Law.

AMERICUS, Ga., Jan. 10.—(AP) Opposition to any move toward legalizing whisky in Sumter county was voiced today by the Sumter County Ministerial Association.

Replying to recent action by the city council and county commissioners who favored a referendum on the question, the association issued the following statement:

"County and city officers, upon assuming office, took a solemn oath to uphold and enforce the law. Evidently a consistent effort has not been made and is not now being made to enforce the present liquor law.

"Therefore, what assurance would the people of the county have that any other liquor law or control measure would be enforced? The state administration recently due enforcement is up to the sheriff and local authorities."

The governmental bodies had stated they would not take sides on the question, but would enforce the verdict of an election on liquor.

Nature and Winter At Odds in Valdosta

VALDOSTA, Ga., Jan. 10.—Nature in south Georgia is giving the lie to the calendar.

Mocking birds, which usually seek the dense growth of the lowlands to protect them from cold, and which usually do not wing their way back to populated sections until trees begin to bud, are here in numbers.

Red-bud trees, which usually do not flower until late February, are brilliant with flowering buds.

Poinsettias, though delicate and fearful of nipping frost, are still in flaming bloom.

And peach trees are in bloom. But these are January blooms, coming at their usual time.

1938 ARMAMENT COSTS PLACED AT 16 BILLION

GENEVA, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The world's 1938 military expenditures bill was estimated today at about $16,000,000,000 by the League of Nations armaments yearbook. The yearbook estimated the costs last year exceeded those of 1937 by $2,500,000,000.

Seven great powers—the United States, Britain, Germany, France, Italy, Japan and the Soviet Union—accounted for 78.7 per cent of the total, with expenditures estimated at $12,528,000,000.

PAPERS OF HARRIS GIVEN TO EMORY

Author's Mementoes Also Added to Collection.

Original manuscripts and personal mementoes of the late Joel Chandler Harris have been added to the Harris Memorial collection at Emory University, Dr. Thomas H. English, chairman of the Emory library committee, announced yesterday.

The presentation was made by members of the Harris family.

Besides manuscripts, the collection includes the author's large silver hunting case watch, given him on his wedding day by his father-in-law, the late Captain Peter LaRose, of Savannah; a small Japanese watch charm of carved ivory, given Harris by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt on his visit to the White House in 1907, and an autograph of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

150 MILLION CUT FROM WPA AND BY HOUSE GROUP

Appropriations Subcommittee Also Revolts Against Agency Going Under Civil Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The first committee of congress to act upon any part of President Roosevelt's new spending program today slashed $150,000,000 from the fund he requested for WPA and revolted against his order placing WPA administrative employees under the civil service.

An appropriations subcommittee composed of seven Democrats and four Republicans recommended to the house that it appropriate $725,000,000, instead of the $875,000,000 which Mr. Roosevelt had requested, to operate the WPA until June 30.

Whether the administration would make an active fight on the house floor to restore the slash was not immediately disclosed. Such a course would risk an initial test of strength there which, if it went against the President, might be more damaging to his prestige than the subcommittee's action.

Mr. Roosevelt made plain at a press conference, however, that he still favored the larger sum. He asked a questioner to try to figure out how many persons would be thrown off WPA rolls as a result of the reduction, and a reporter suggested 50,000 he contended that was probably all wrong. He suggested that the reporter check again.

In his position, the President declared, he had to think not only in terms of dollars but in terms of individual men, women and children—and he felt this was an important factor.

The WPA appropriation which the subcommittee sent to the full committee contained a provision designed to nullify an executive order which members of congress said would otherwise blanket 31,300 administrative employees of the work relief organization into the civil service on February 1.

It provided simply that the appropriation should not be available to compensate the incumbent of any position placed in the civil service after January 10.

(The civil service order had aroused furious controversy. Citing charges of politics in relief, Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, had declared that instead of throwing the "gangsters" out, the administration was re-warding them "by life tenure in their rocking chairs.")

TEACHER'S WIDOW DIES IN 88TH YEAR

Mrs. Sarah Roberts' Husband Was Also a Confederate Veteran.

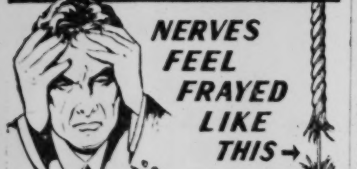

Mrs. Sarah Frances Roberts, 87, widow of a Confederate veteran who was a professor at Georgia Tech for 17 years, died late Monday night at her home, 865 West End avenue, S. W.

Mrs. Roberts had been a resident of Atlanta for 60 years and for the past 18 years had been a member of the St. Anthony Catholic church. Her husband died about 20 years ago.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. G. Y. Pierce, Mrs. R. S. Robertson and Miss Ruth Roberts; two sons, W. B. Roberts and S. F. Roberts; several grandchildren and great-grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at St. Anthony church by the Rev. Father Quinlan. Burial will be in West View cemetery under direction of A. C. Hemperley & Sons.

CLARKSTON PROUD OF $1,700 SURPLUS

Factional Rows End as Mayor George W. Perrin Takes Over.

Peace reigns again in Clarkston as administration authorities, factional differences forgotten, yesterday began mapping plans for the new fiscal year.

George W. Perrin, who succeeded H. H. Hensler as mayor, mindful of promises made in his inaugural address, began studying municipal records preliminary to drafting his program. In his report to the new council, former Mayor Hensler stated all bills had been paid and that a surplus of $1,700 existed in the city treasury.

Serving with Mayor Perrin are Mayor Pro Tem. Fred T. Dempsey and Councilmen R. J. Haynie, R. W. Dent, Hay Hensler, J. Frank Kelly and Dr. H. D. Crowe.

Officers of the municipality are Roy Skillern, city clerk; T. M. Morris, tax collector; John A. Manry, city attorney; M. M. Armistead, chief of police, and W. H. Armistead, Ed L. Sutton and W. O. McCleskey, tax assessors.

WAR BY SUMMER FEARED BY ENVOYS

pean situation. Bullitt, Wilson and William Phillips, American ambassador to Rome, met the President at his Warm Springs, Ga., retreat. Kennedy's return is the most recent, and he interrupted a Miami vacation to appear before the committee. Kennedy, Bullitt and Undersecretary of State Welles conferred with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday and with Secretary of State Hull today.

The United Press informant reported the envoys as saying that France and Britain have lagged in rearmament and this has been the chief factor in Britain's conciliatory attitude. But they represented France as no longer willing to back down despite the apparent inferiority in armaments.

At one point Kennedy reportedly said that Britain's policy of appeasement is so deep rooted that it would permit Hitler to build a German air base in Canada rather than revert to war.

Kennedy was said to have described the general attitude of Great Britain's populace as "defeatist" and that British youth seemed to have accepted the belief that war is only a matter of months.

The testimony visibly affected committee members, most of whom declined to discuss it. Anonymous comment tended to emphasize the nonpartisan character of the report behind most of the administration's foreign policy. One Republican member of the committee described the envoys' testimony as "impressive" and said that "on the basis of the facts they gave us, I would permit Hitler to build a German air base in Canada rather than revert to war."

Bill To Train CCC Boys. One of the immediate results of the session was a proposal by Chairman Andrew J. May, Democrat, Tennessee, of the house military affairs committee, that military training be provided for the 300,000 men and boys in the Civilian Conservation Corps. He indicated he would seek to embody the suggestion in the defense bill.

May also said he planned to introduce a bill calling for construction of four-lane superhighways along the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts to facilitate movement of motorized military units.

Chamberlain Pledges To Stand With France Against Italian Claims.

BULLETIN.

MODANE, France, Wednesday, Jan. 11.—(UP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain and Lord Halifax, British foreign secretary, en route by train to Rome, crossed the frontier here into Italy at 5:45 a. m. today.

The usual customs formalities were dispensed with and the train proceeded to Genoa.

PARIS, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain today pledged Great Britain to support France in her firm refusal to give in to Italian demands for part of France's Mediterranean empire.

The two democracies strengthened their co-operation to counter the Italian-German menace to their common life-line—the ship route through the Mediterranean and the Suez canal.

British and French statesmen, however, were understood to have left a way open to prevent tension in the Mediterranean between France and Italy from reaching a deadlock—unless Italy is determined to force the issue.

Chamberlain and Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, conferred with Premier Daladier and Foreign Minister Bonnet, then left Paris for formal appeasement conversations with Mussolini in Rome.

After the brief conference—sandwiched between the arrival of the British statesmen's train and their departure for Rome—the situation appeared to be:

France will not give an inch to Fascist agitation, which Daladier has described as "blackmail," and will refuse to let her personal quarrel with Italy be brought before a conference where Germany or Britain would act as mediators.

In this she has Britain's absolute support and Chamberlain will tell Mussolini so.

If Italy is willing, however, to thresh out the entire Mediterranean situation, France would be willing to join a conference of nations, which would include Spain, Yugoslavia, Greece, Turkey and Egypt.

Britain's position was announced earlier by Bonnet. The meeting

Bride of 11 Days Will Get Share Of Husband's Dodge Auto Millions

Former Telephone Operator, Widow of Honeymoon Accident Victim, Given $400,000 Outright—May Get $8,000,000.

PONTIAC, Mich., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Mrs. Annie Laurie Dodge, former $15-a-week telephone operator at Gore Bay, Ont., who was the wife of Daniel G. Dodge for 11 days, won a widow's share of a motor fortune today. Estimates of attorneys in the case of the amount the young widow eventually will receive ranged from $400,000 to $8,000,000, since a settlement approved today in Oakland county probate court did not fix the disputed value of the estate. State and federal taxes would sharply reduce these figures.

The Daniel Dodge will, which Mrs. Dodge contested, left her $250,000, the amount stipulated in a prenuptial agreement.

Mrs. Dodge's attorney, Paul Oren, of Detroit, said the settlement made the 21-year-old widow eligible eventually to receive $8,000,000, less taxes.

David H. Crowley, of counsel for Mrs. Wilson, said Mrs. Dodge was certain of receiving only one-fourth of $1,600,000 which Daniel Dodge possessed outright at his death. He said that $10,500,000 included by Oren in the immediate estate represents accumulated, unexpended income credited to trust fund.

Mrs. Dodge, daughter of a Manitoulin Island, Ont., tugboat captain, met young Dodge two years ago. They were married last August 2. On August 13, Dodge was injured by a dynamite explosion at his summer lodge on Manitoulin island where they were spending their honeymoon. He fell from a boat and drowned while he was being taken to the mainland for treatment.

PARIS CABINET SHAKEUP RUMORS NEAR CLIMAX. PARIS, Jan. 10.—(UP)—Rumors of cabinet shakeup involving the possible removal of Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet increased tonight and may reach a climax Friday in the chamber of deputies during debate on foreign affairs.

BAILEY DEMANDS PENAL REFORMS

Brands Arkansas System as Productive of Vindictive Cruelty.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 10.—(UP)—Governor Bailey, in his inaugural address, declared today that Arkansas' convict farm system was "productive of vindictive cruelty" and asked a combined session of the legislature to abolish it.

Bailey also recommended: Enactment of a workmen's compensation act, and free textbooks for high school students.

S. C. SOLON ASKS SLAP AT HITLER

COLUMBIA, S. C., Jan. 10.—(UP)—Convening at noon, the South Carolina legislature today began organization for the 1939 session by re-electing Solomon Blatt, Barnwell county, as speaker. Representative Harry Hughes, Oconee county, asked that "Adolf Hitler be notified" of the selection of a Jew as speaker.

DIXON WINS SUPPORT OF ALABAMA SOLONS

G. O. P. LEADERS HIT NEW DEAL POLICIES

McNary and Martin Criticize Relief, Spending and Trade Agreements.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Congressional Republican members, increasing the tempo of a steady hammering at the New Deal, denounced today the administration's fiscal, relief and trade agreement policies.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, and Representative Martin, of Massachusetts, the party's leaders in each house, voiced similar criticisms in separate radio broadcasts.

McNary called for elimination of politics from relief, saying the Republicans "would join hands with any group to drive the political racketeer and spoilsman out of the administration of relief."

Martin appealed for an end to "this relief scandal," for which he said former WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins "promptly was promoted" to the President's cabinet. Martin added that the current spending program would mortgage the nation for the next century.

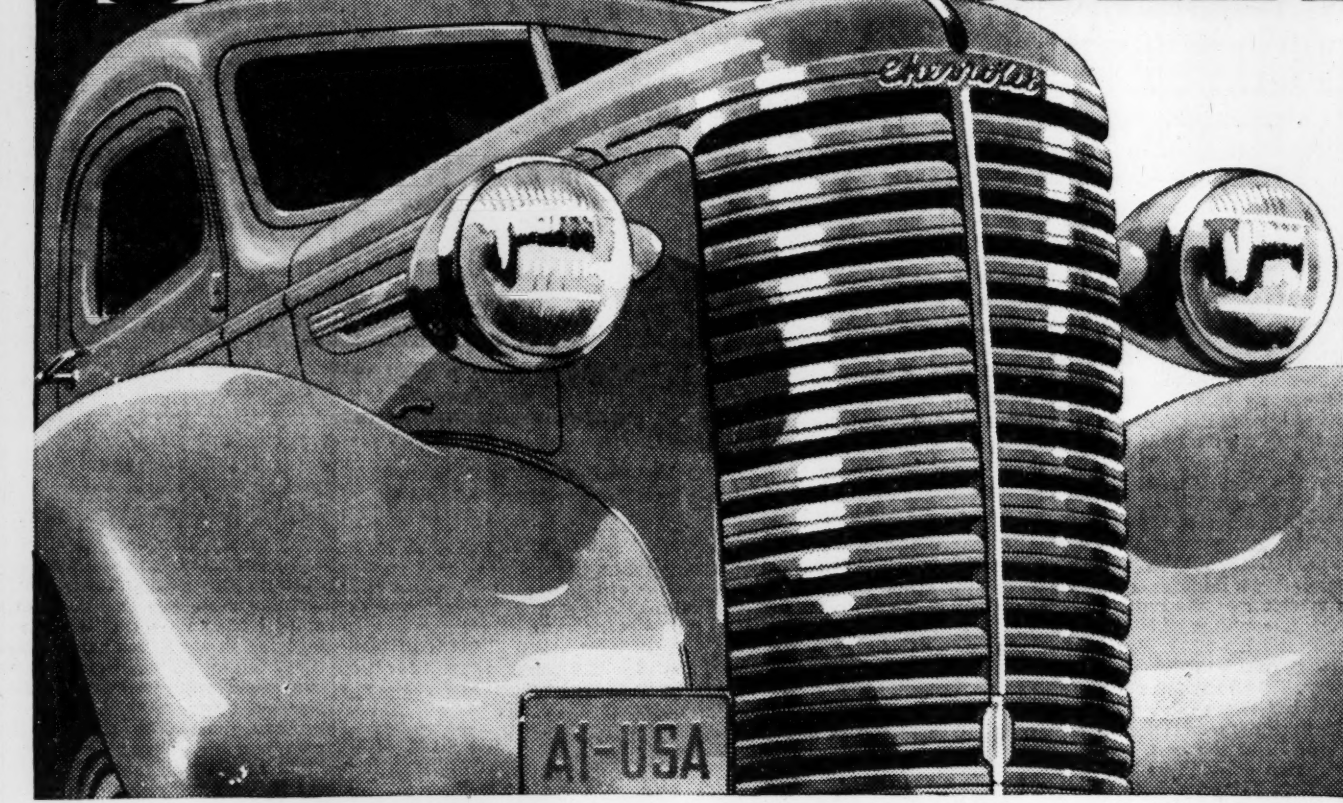

McNary referred in similar vein to spending policies. At a time, he said, when business and industry "need a word of encouragement," the administration proposes "further spending and larger deficits."

Georgia Completes '39 Coaching Staff

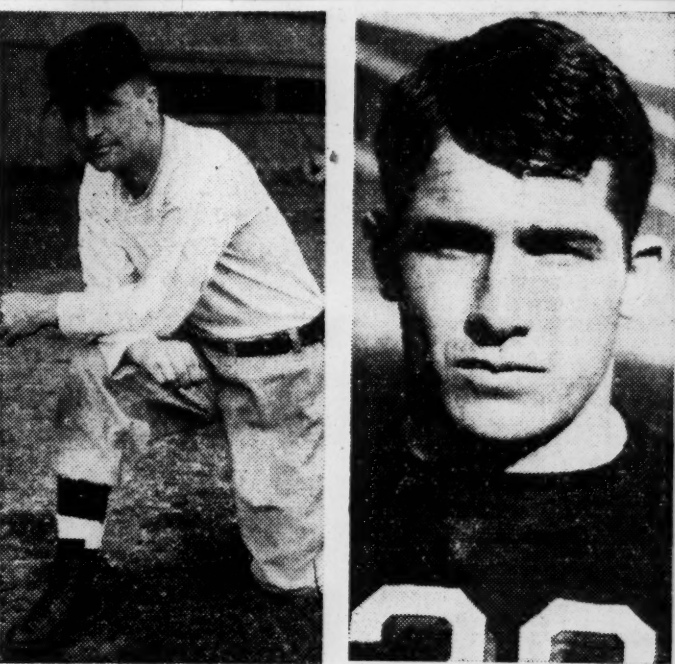

University of Georgia athletic and academic heads went into conference last night at Athens and decided upon the staff of nine coaches who will direct Bulldog teams in 1939.

Lumpkin To Assist With Bulldog Frosh

Lampe, Sikes, Hollis, Towns, Jones Retained; No Coaches Are Given Contracts.

By JACK TROY.

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 10.—Following a long session, the representative of the athletic board of the University of Georgia tonight announced the complete list of coaches for 1939.

Professor W. O. Payne acted as spokesman and listed the set-up in alphabetical order, as follows: Backfield coach, William Hartman; freshman coach, Howell Hollis; boxing and swimming coach, Clarence W. Jones; basketball coach, E. A. Lampe; assistant freshman coach, Quinton Lumpkin; trainer, Fritz Lutz; end and baseball coach, J. V. Sikes; track coach, Forrest Towns; line coach, J. B. Whitworth.

The announcement was more or less an elucidation of the obvious, since the list of coaches had been picked rather accurately by newspapermen, but the announcement from the board's spokesman made it official.

The athletic board obviously made a thorough study of the set-up before making any announcements, for, including a time out for dinner, the annual meeting consumed about four hours.

NO CONTRACTS.

It was announced that none of the coaches have signed contracts and that the tenure of office is for one year. This includes Head Coach Wallace Butts, who was named to succeed Joel Hunt several weeks ago.

"Ears" Whitworth, Georgia's new line coach, is 31 years of age and a native of Blytheville, Ark. He played football at the high school there before entering Alabama. He was a guard at Alabama in 1928, '29 and '30, but did not become a regular until his senior year when Alabama, unbeaten, played in the Rose Bowl.

Following graduation, Whitworth assisted Hank Crisp as line coach at Alabama from 1932 through 1934. It was in 1935 that he went to Louisiana State University as head freshman coach, a post he held for three years. He was elevated to the position of varsity line coach last season.

A FLYING SCOUT.

Whitworth gained considerable fame at L. S. U. as a flying scout. He used the school airplane and often took notes as two L. S. U. opponents and then saw his own school play within the space of three days.

Whitworth married the former Virginia Calvert, of Monroe, La., in 1936, and the couple have one child, a boy of five months. They met while attending Alabama.

Whitworth is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity O-D. K. and was president of the "A" club at Alabama.

Georgia followers know the record of Bill Hartman rather well, but part of it may bear repeating. Hartman, who is 24, played two years under Head Coach Butts at Madison A. and M., and when Butts transferred to G. M. C. at Milledgeville, Hartman went with him. He was a star fullback at both schools.

JACK OF ALL TRADES.

Hartman entered Georgia in 1934 and followed up a brilliant freshman year by making the varsity. He ended up a great career by being a man of all work. He

FROSH, SENIORS WIN AT EMORY

Emory's intramural basketball season opened Monday with the freshmen outclassing the sophomores, 25 to 5, the Theologs upsetting the Junior five, 18 to 15, the Seniors besting the Lawyers, 27 to 15, and the Grads surprising the Meds, 33 to 24.

Surprise of the opening day was the play of Athletic Director George Moyer, who paced the Grads to victory with 17 points. For the Meds Milt Freedman racked up 16.

In the opener between the Frosh and the Sophs, the first year men completely outclassed their upper-class rivals. The Sophs got only one field goal—by Beckham. Buckwald led the Greenie attack with 10 points, and Gunter, guard, turned in a neat floor performance.

Dick Bell was the spark of the Theolog attack as the Preachers upset the favored Juniors. Art Bishop, with 6 points, and Walter Cottingham with four led the losers' scoring.

Goodwin, Medalist, Loses First Match

PALM BEACH, Fla., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Medalist Tommy Goodwin, of New York, a former winner, ran into trouble today and was eliminated by J. H. McClain, of Southampton, N. Y., in the first round of the annual Lake Worth golf tournament.

McClain, playing a consistent game, won, 2 and 1, over Goodwin, who erred on two tee shots. Goodwin fired a 70 yesterday to lead the qualifiers while McClain made the top flight with 78.

was a jack of all trades of the backfield.

In his junior year he re-entered the lineup after a period of injury to lead the Bulldogs to a 7-7 tie with Fordham's seven blocks of granite. That game knocked the Rams out of a Rose Bowl chance.

As a climax to a comeback season for Georgia, Hartman paced the Bulldogs to a smashing 16-to-6 victory over Georgia Tech.

And so in his senior year he was honored by being named captain of Georgia. He was used as a general utility back toward the end of the year.

PRO GRID STAR. Last year Hartman was a star of the Washington Redskins. He was an understudy to Singing Sammy Baugh and almost stole the show from the great Texan when the latter was forced to the sidelines because of injury. It was a relatively easy matter to obtain the okay of the conference on Hartman. There is a rule against pro coaching, but the 12 college presidents gladly made an exception in his case.

The new coaching set-up seems to meet the approval of the majority. Wally Butts has made an enviable record as a coach where ever he has been and there seems no good reason why he should not continue as successfully as the head man at Georgia, following a season as end coach.

SMITHIE CAGERS DEFEAT PURPLES

Commercial Downs Marist in Opening Round of City League.

By ROY WHITE.

Tech High and Commercial High were winners Tuesday night on the new Henry Grady court in the opening of the city prep basketball league.

Commercial High defeated Marist College, 44 to 31, in the first game, as Tech High drew first blood in its first athletic war of the year with Boys' High. The score of the Tech High-Boys' High scrap was 40 to 30.

Grady Ammons, elected captain just before the game, sank a long field goal to put Tech High in the lead three minutes after the game started.

Ammons continued his accurate shooting and his work alone gave Tech High an 8 to 0 lead at the quarter. The Smithies continued in front, but slowed down considerably in the second period and led 17 to 12 at the half.

Tech High doubled its 17 points of the first half in the third period and led 34 to 20 going into the last 10 minutes of play.

Captain Ammons with 16 points led the Smithies, closely followed by Pounds with a dozen points. McKinney and Chaffin, two guards, shared scoring honors for the Purples with eight points each.

Harry Nicholes was named Smithie alternate captain.

In the opening game, Commercial gained an early lead and was never headed. The Typists led 18 to 7 at the quarter, due to Chick Barrett and Wyatt shooting from all angles on the court. Wallace, a rangy center, played a great defensive game for the Typists in the first half.

A number of Commercial reserves went into the game. Stanford, with 20 points, paced Marist and was also high scorer for the two games.

The lineups:

COMMERCIAL (44) Pos. MARIST (31)
Ammons (16) F. Gentry (12)
Pounds (12) F. Murphy (11)
McKinney (8) F. Stanford (20)
Chaffin (4) G. Wass (4)

Russell High Teams Turn Back Griffin.

Russell High, champions of the N. G. I. C., won a double-header from Griffin Tuesday night on the East Point court. The girls won, 23 to 15, and the boys made it a clean sweep, 59 to 15.

In the girls' game, Marwitz, with 10 points, led the way for Russell, with Land and Cummings, getting 13 of Griffin's 15 points between them.

McCoy and Davis, two veterans from the 1938 squad, led the boys to a one-sided victory in the second game. McCoy scored 19 points, four more than the entire Griffin team, while Davis, with 17 points, also was two points in front of the losers.

Russell led, 26 to 11, at the half. RUSSELL (59) Pos. GRIFFIN (15)
Marwitz (19) F. Goodrich (11)
Davis (17) F. Melton (2)

ATHENS, Ga., Jan. 10.—It was very thoughtless, indeed, of Master Johnny Bradberry to forget the Chinese checkers.

There is time for several games, with a few rounds of parchesi thrown in for good measure, before the Georgia Athletic Board comes out of the huddle with the names of the new assistant football coaches.

It has come to pass that sports writers visit Athens in the fall for the kick-off and then return, after the season, for the kick-out.

But there is, of course, a reason for such things and there is nothing critical to be construed from these lines.

The same thing happens in the business world, except that changes are given very little publicity. Then, too, there is not, apparently, the interest in business changes that evolves around the changing scene as regards coaches.

I am sure that Joel Hunt will find another connection and that he will depart from Athens without any feeling of acrimony or ill-will toward his successor, Wally Butts.

There is a financial adjustment to be made in the case of Joel Hunt, and he will be satisfied if it is adequate. That is, I judge he will, after a spot of conversation with him.

An explanation has been made that Hunt is being relieved of the coaching duties NOT because of the record or due to a deficiency in his coaching.

The statement leaves much to the imagination, but I can assure you that it isn't anything of startling import.

He may have made a few mistakes—he might have been a bit outspoken—but whatever mistakes he might have made will very likely be profitable to him for the future.

After all, he stepped into his first major head coaching job only last year and was able to select only one of his assistants. The others were selected for him.

He was entitled to make a few mistakes.

"FIRST BASE AND SECOND BASE."

I fell to thinking, during the interval of waiting for the board to emerge, about a story told on a football player during the past season.

It is not, assuredly, typical of college football players as students, but nevertheless it strikes one as containing a bit of humor.

The football player was enrolled in chemistry and time came for him to take the first examination, which was one of those oral examinations.

And the professor asked him to name two bases. The player thought for a spell before answering and then finally said, "First base and second base."

The class very properly roared, but the player sidestepped his way out of the situation with a very sensible retort.

"I don't think the question was quite fair," he said, "owing to the season of the year. I also play baseball and I probably had my mind on the diamond pastime."

The professor was rather keen on repartee himself, so he promptly said, "But you'll still be wrong. What about third base?"

"Well, professor, I so seldom get to third base, it slipped my mind."

A LITTLE HUMOR HELPS.

A little humor helps in a situation like this. I recall last year. Harry Mehre was leaving Georgia after 10 years. It was about this same time and the board soon was to emerge with the name of Joel Hunt as his successor.

It's a bit different in Hunt's case. His successor already is known. But he soon will be leaving Athens for good.

The difference of one year and 10 years is rather vast, of course. Mehre had come to look upon Athens as his home. And he naturally was a bit disconsolate at the thought of leaving.

Hunt hardly was around long enough to really know

J. P. C. FIVE TRIPS BLEACHERY, 43-39

Southern Champs Drop Thriller Here; Cubs Lose, 50 to 47.

By MELVIN PAZOL.

Playing better as a team than they have at any previous time this season, Coach Harold Bennett's J. P. C. basketball quintet matched the southern invitational champion Southern Bleachery squad point for point, and had just enough in reserve to ward off a desperate last-minute attack to gain revenge for the overtime defeat the visitors handed them here last year. The final score was, J. P. C. 43; Bleachery 39.

The outcome was in doubt all during the game with neither team ever having more than a six-point lead, which was the advantage the Progressives held at half-time, 26 to 20. Wilson shot the first field goal to send the Red Flames away ahead. J. P. C. quickly pushed to the front at 11-8, and Bleachery overtook them at 12-11. Never again was Bleachery in the lead, although they tied the count at 38-all with but seven minutes to play. Here Browdy shot two free throws and Sud-duth one, and thus the score remained at 40-39 for the Progressives with only one minute of playing time remaining. Gabby Greenberg made good on a foul shot with less than a minute to go, and Captain Morris Katz put on the finishing touches with a beautiful field goal just before the whistle blew.

BERT HILL OUT.

Captain Bert Hill, ace Red Flame forward, did not accompany the team. He recently underwent a sinus operation. The play of Sud-duth and Connie MacBERRY was topnotch for the visitors. Sud-duth was the spark of the Bleachery attack in the first half, pulling the J. P. C. guards out by sinking long field goals. MacBERRY was invaluable because of his height both on offense and defense and collected 10 points which gave him second honors to Sud-duth who made 12. Wilson made nine for Bleachery, which was as many as any of the J. P. C. players got.

Therein lay the difference, however, for although Greenberg and Ginsberg each totaled nine points to top the J. P. C. scoring, the entire J. P. C. team played heads-up ball, with no player outstanding, pulling the J. P. C. guards out by sinking long field goals. Ruppert Is Near Death At His New York Home

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Colonel Jacob Ruppert, multi-millionaire brewer and owner of the world champion New York Yankee baseball club, was so near death tonight that he was given the last sacrament of the Catholic church, but he dropped asleep with a prediction that he would recover.

The 71-year-old bachelor, a Manhattan real estate titan and one of the nation's wealthiest men, was reported "resting easily" but still critically ill.

Albert Brennan, who has served as Ruppert's right-hand man the last 27 years without official title, said the colonel hovered between weary consciousness and a semi-coma and went to sleep just before 11 p. m.

"I've been sick a long time, haven't I, Al?" Ruppert said to Brennan just before he went to sleep.

"But, you know what? I'm going to get better,"

COLONEL RUPPERT. How Ruppert could survive many more hours the illness that developed into complications from an attack of pleuritis that struck him last April and has confined him much of the time since.

Ruppert's brother George and other members of the family were at his bedside in the Ruppert town house on upper Fifth avenue.

Among the first to express regret over his illness was Babe Ruth, himself in a hospital for observation after a slight heart attack.

Ruppert's extravagant—and highly profitable—sally into baseball was greatly enhanced by Ruth's prodigious home-run hitting ability and for it Ruppert paid him the record player salary of baseball—a top of $80,000 a year.

Ruppert's associates generally estimated his fortune between $70,000,000 and $100,000,000 and his real estate holdings in New York second only to those of the Astor family.

H. ARMSTRONG WINS DECISION

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Two-crown Henry Armstrong won a grueling 10-round decision over Baby Arizmendi tonight in a bout recognized by the California Athletic Commission as a world welterweight championship match.

Armstrong weighed 134½ and Arizmendi 136, just over his usual lightweight poundage.

A capacity house of more than 10,000, who paid upwards of $25,000 to see the two in their fifth encounter, saw the negro champion slay off Arizmendi's closing rally and win Referee George V.

Blake's decision by a close but decisive margin.

There were no knockdowns, midway in the seventh, Armstrong split open Arizmendi's forehead and it bled until the end of the fight. Hammerin' Henry quit the ring with a swollen left eye.

Arizmendi all but matched Armstrong's aggressive, relentless punching, but the veteran little Mexican's blows lacked the power of his opponent's.

The Associated Press score card gave Armstrong five rounds, Arizmendi four and one even.

L. S. U. WINS. UNIVERSITY, Miss., Jan. 10.—(AP)—Louisiana State University defeated the University of Mississippi in a basketball game tonight, 42 to 34, for the second consecutive night.

Babe Ruth in Hospital After Heart Attack

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(UP)—Babe Ruth, the all-time home run king, was in French hospital tonight for observation after he suffered a heart attack.

Dr. Robert H. McConnell, medical director of the hospital, said that Ruth's condition was not serious, but that he had gone to the hospital for a general check-up. He was expected to be able to leave the hospital tomorrow.

Ruth suffered a mild attack at his home Sunday night. He remained in bed at his apartment, attended by Dr. McConnell and nurses, until today. Then the 44-year-old former Yankee slugger was taken to the hospital.

"I've just been feeling out of sorts for a couple of days, so I came to the hospital to see what it's all about," he said. "Now, I'm not sick—nothing serious, at all."

Ruth was more concerned with the illness of Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the New York Yankees and the Babe's former boss.

"Gee, the colonel is one grand fellow," he said. "I'm certainly sorry he's so sick. What's the last report you've had on him?"

Friends of the Babe believe that his recent over-exertions in golf and reducing workouts in the gymnasium may have brought on his illness. He has gained 28 pounds in the past few weeks.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(UP)—Ellsworth Vines, world's professional tennis champion, tonight evened his barnstorming series with Donald Budge, world's amateur titleholder, scoring a 7-5, 2-6, 6-4 victory before 3,500 fans. Each has won three matches.

Jackets Begin Basketball Schedule Against Mercer Tonight

ANDERSON, SMITH ONLY LEFTOVERS FROM CHAMPIONS

Game Slated at New Gym With Enlarged Seating Capacity.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Inauguration of a new season, new gymnasium and almost new basketball team will take place at 8 o'clock tonight when Tech meets Mercer.

Only two members of last year's Southeastern conference championship five will be on hand when Coach Roy Mundorff's "rookie" quintet takes the court against the battle-scarred Bears in the first game at the new gym.

Coach Mundorff flatly predicts a capital letter defeat for his team. The post-season football game with California cut down on pre-game practices and the Jackets will enter the contest with only six or seven days' drill under their belts.

LINEUP UNCERTAIN.

Starting lineup for the Techs is still a mystery. Mundorff tells sports writers to "pick their own."

With this in view, we announce the starting five will consist of Lettermen George Smith and Junior Anderson and Sophomores Jim Hughes, Morris Bryan and Jim Williams.

Smith and Bryan will be at forwards, Hughes at center, with Williams and the ball-hawking Anderson holding down the guard posts.

Coach Mundorff may surprise and start two members of last year's squad, Dillard Mumford and Walter Haymans. However, neither saw much action during the Techs' successful conquest for the conference title.

Despite lack of experience and dismal prospects for a good year, the Tech quintet will not lack color. Junior Anderson is one of the smoothest guards ever seen in Atlanta.

In addition, he is a fiery leader and an inspiring teammate with a never-give-up spirit.

GOOD NUCLEUS. George Smith is a clever ball handler and Jim Hughes and Morris Bryan are capable of making spectacular shots.

The Mercers will present a strong, well-knit team in an effort to revenge their rout of last year. Refusing to disband over the Christmas holidays, the Bears toured the state under the name of "Ramblers" and have compiled a good record.

Coach Mundorff issued 12 playing uniforms and it is likely all players will see action.

Ample seating space is available for the public.

North Fulton Splits 2 With Druid Hills

North Fulton boys trounced Druid Hills, 31-21, yesterday, but the girls were less fortunate, bowing to the Druid Hills ladies, 19-11. Both games were played at North Fulton.

Cornell paced North Fulton boys with 11 points and Harnett got nine for the losers. North Fulton trailed at the half, 13-10, but rallied strong to win.

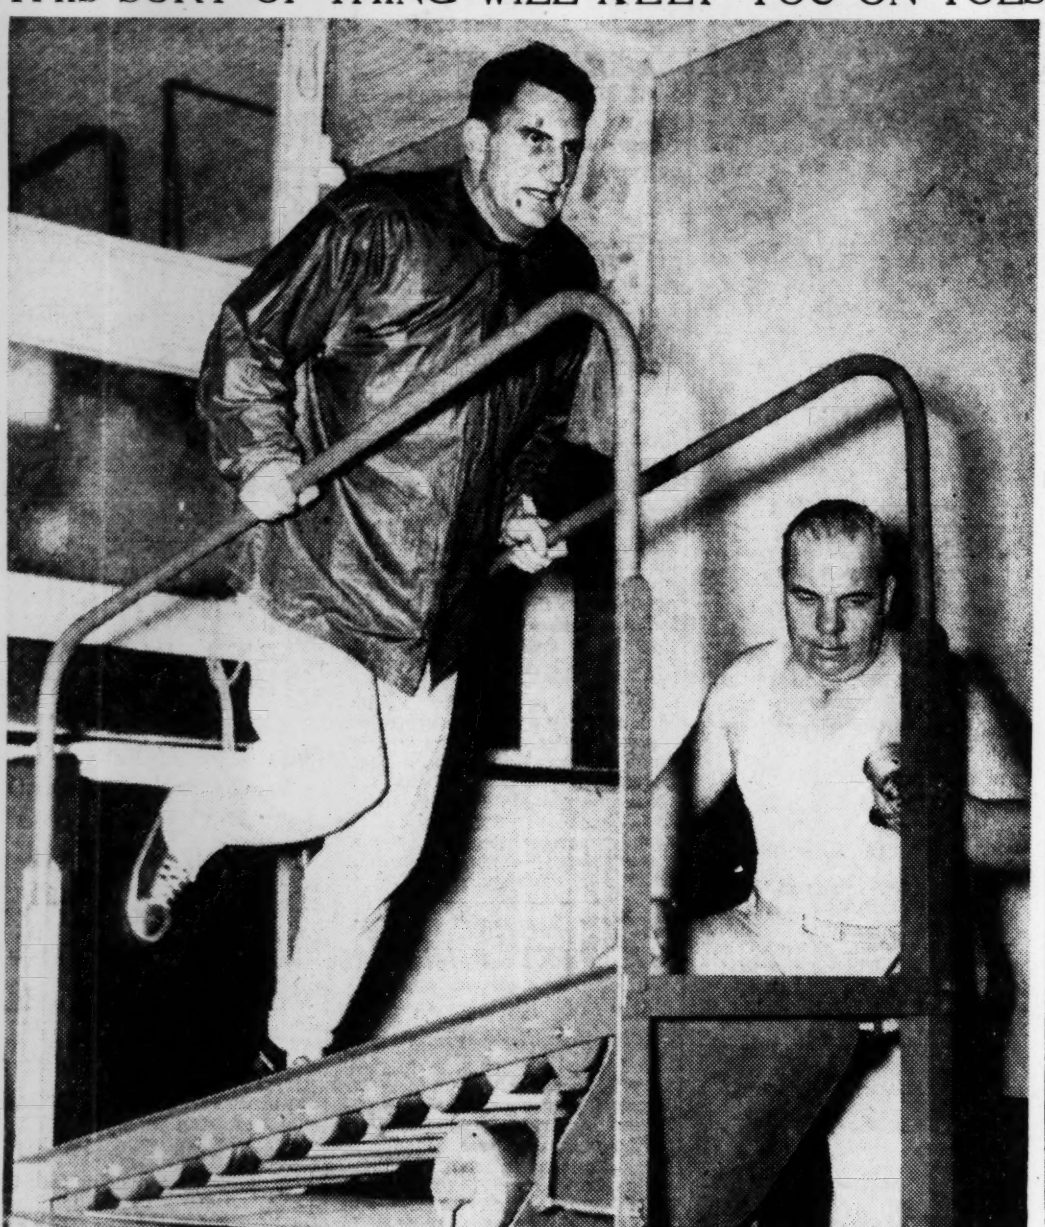

Woodall sank nine points for Druid Hills girls and Hunt shot six for North Fulton, which lagged at the half, 7-6.

TOWN HALL. Fred Allen, who has been holding forth for many years as the Town Hall baker, will interview a real pitch man as his "Person You Didn't Expect to Meet" during the program to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight.

Assembled under the big top of the circus of fun will be Portland Hoffa, Harry von Zell, the Mighty Allen Art Players, the Merry Macs, Lyn Murray's Town Hall

THIS SORT OF THING WILL KEEP YOU ON TOES

Fred Sington, who finished out the past season in sensational fashion as a Brooklyn Dodger, is on his toes these days. He is shown above on a special roller-running machine which is especially good for strengthening the arches and building up legs. Bill Daly, Sington's trainer, is shown keeping check on Sington's speed.

Sington Gets Ready For Baseball Grind

Fred Takes Winter Insurance for Long Summer Season With Brooklyn Dodgers.

By JACK TROY.

Fred Sington was giving his metatarsal nerves a brisk workout at a rate of about 25 miles per hour, central standard time.

Sington was not going anywhere, as he pounded the rollers of the stationary machine, but he really was on his toes.

And it seemed that the machine, which is the only one of its kind in America, is peculiarly useful to fellows who make a living on their legs.

NERVE IN FOOT. By way of explanation, the metatarsal nerve is in the ball of the foot. It is the nerve that gives runners and ball players the most trouble.

When you read that the player is having trouble with his feet, you can safely bet last year's straw hat that it's the metatarsal nerve that's acting up.

Mule Haas used to have trouble with it. Trainers resorted to treating his feet with a rolling pin or a bottle.

Some players also have been known to treat their feet with a bottle, but by the quaint internal method of application.

WINTER INSURANCE. Incidentally, Sington is not having any foot trouble. He simply is taking out winter insurance for the summer grind.

And pounding the special roller running machine is only one of the daily drills he is put through by his trainer, Bill Daly. Sington lifts bar bells for his wrists and forearms, rides a bicycle for his legs and punches a bag to sharpen his batting eye.

Men who have made a study of the matter say that an athlete who runs on his toes saves half a foot on each stride, which is quite a saving in such instances as running the bases, which are 90 feet apart.

SINGTON ON TOES. So Sington is on his toes these days, in more than one way. He already has sent two Brooklyn contracts back. He may sign the next time, as third time usually is accepted as the charm.

Big Fred has been going through the winter training paces for more than three weeks, and Trainer Daly contends that in another week he will be in the pink.

Sington is doing his part. It's now up to the Brooklyn Dodgers to do theirs.

WARREN ROUTS SILVERTOWN 5 FOR NINTH WIN

Lauter's Machine Triumphs, 56-20, for Sixth Straight Victory.

With an almost perfect basketball performance the giant Warren team last night romped to its ninth victory of the season and its sixth in succession by smothering the Silvertown quintet, 56-20.

The Thomaston club came here with a good record, which showed victories over Mercer, Albany Blues and Hogansville (conquerors of J. P. C.), but they were never in the ball game against Shep Lauter's machine which continued to hit on all cylinders.

Warren led at the half, 25-8, and when the second half got under way, went on to run their point total up to 41 before the visitors could break through a rugged defense for their first tally. The count then was 41-8.

Lauter poured subs into the game, resting his varsity for other tough engagements this week. Carroll's strong Redskins are to be met tonight at Carroll and tomorrow night Southern Bleachery invades Warren arena. A game is set with Copperhill Sunday at the arena.

Ted Cabiness, slick little forward, paced Warren to victory with 12 points. Virlyn Moore shot eight and Copeland nine.

Warren Reserves defeated Marietta Athletic Club, 45-38, despite a one-man show by Fletcher Sims, former Georgia Tech athlete, who shot 22 points for the losers.

Warren Reserves were ahead at the half, 25-20.

ALL IN THE GAME

Athens and, in addition, his charming wife is not an Athens girl.

And he played enough professional baseball to become philosophical about the breaks. A ball player hardly knows from one year to the next where he will be.

In some cases, baseball and college football are much alike, in respect to players and coaches. There is no room for sentiment.

A SENSIBLE ATTITUDE. In connection with football, I recall a piece the other day by Bill Keefe in the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Keefe took the firm stand—adding that it was the stand of the Sugar Bowl committee, too—that football teams would be foolish to tie up with any bowl game.

"Let them play where they want to play," Keefe observed.

He pointed out that it was unfair to players and supporters for a school to commit itself to any one bowl.

Which, of course, is the sane attitude. There does not seem to be any sound reason for a Southwestern team aligning itself with the Cotton Bowl or a Southeastern team definitely committing itself to the Sugar Bowl.

The Rose Bowl, regardless of how one may feel on the matter, is THE bowl game, from the standpoint of crowd, color and money.

It may bet that it doesn't lend any more prestige to a team to go west to battle the Pacific coast defender at Pasadena, but it certainly does mean a lot to the players, educationally speaking, and the school, financially speaking.

Let them play where they want to play. By all means. Because they're going to do that very thing anyway. If the chance is offered.

SEMINARY OPENS SETTER FIRST

Washington Seminary opens its basketball season Friday night, meeting Cooper Hall from Rome on the Seminary court.

Although two of last year's varsity graduated, Annie Laurie Kurtz and Georgia Oliver, the remaining four will be ably assisted by two members of the new squad.

Returning members of last year's squad are: Forwards, Miriam Harland, Cato Wheelch, Joanne Dorman, Ruth Lyons and Eleanor Hoyt. Guards, Caroline Yundt, Ione Mercer, Frances Cundell, Carolyn Howell, Anne Ecken and Beverly Zerbst.

New members of the Seminary squad are: Forwards, Sara Bevers, Marilyn Brownlee, Lucy Bryant, Cortez Cooleedge, Ouida Hudson, Tatty Shipps and Betty Howell. Guards, Tina Will, Janet Alcorn, Valerie Blacknell, Dorothy Grove, Julia Wellborn, Jean Geiger, Jack Hilsman, Anne Hoyt, Laleah Sullivan, Betsy White, Jane Ward and Joy Rutland.

Georgia Women Will Attend Today's Affair at White House

By Sally Forth.

WHEN Mrs. Roosevelt entertains several hundred women from throughout the nation at the White House in Washington this afternoon, Georgia will be represented among the guests by Mrs. Robin Wood, of Atlanta, and Mrs. Frank A. Dennis, of Eatonton. These two women leaders were appointed by Governor Rivers in behalf of the state-wide campaign to raise money with which to fight infantile paralysis.

This afternoon's affair, in addition to its social side, will be for discussion of a permanent setup for the polio fight. Of such wide importance to the nation is this work, that a part of the program will be broadcast over the radio by the nation's First Lady.

Mrs. Wood and Mrs. Dennis are co-chairmen of the women's division of the Georgia committee for the celebration of the President's birthday balls, and their visit in the national capital will be marked by their attendance at a number of affairs given in connection with the current drive. This evening a dinner will be given by Honorable Melvin C. Hazen and Honorable George E. Allen, co-chairmen of the District of Columbia for the celebration of the President's birthday balls. Keith Morgan, national chairman of the drive against infantile paralysis, will be principal speaker. The dinner will be given at one of the leading hotels of Washington on fashionable Sixteenth street, and will gather men and women leaders from throughout the nation, including the two Georgia leaders.

Mrs. Wood, you know, is that energetic person who originated and arranged the meeting of the rural-urban women last year when Mrs. Roosevelt came here to address the thousands of women in attendance. Sally hears that while she is in Washington on her present trip, Mrs. Wood will make arrangements for a leading American woman to be present at the second rural-urban conference scheduled for March. In addition to the various dinners and luncheons she will attend, Mrs. Wood has appointments with Representative Mrs. Caroline O'Day, congresswoman-at-large from New York, and Mrs. Tom McAllister, chairman of the woman's division of the Democratic Digest.

During her stay in the national capital, Mrs. Dennis will be honor guest at a number of affairs assembling leaders in patriotic circles. The "Lady from Eatonton," you know, is one of Georgia's outstanding figures in patriotic organizations. Sally recalls that her regime as a former president of the Georgia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, was one of the most brilliant administrations recorded in the organization's history. Mrs. Dennis' ability was also recognized by the general division, U. D. C., when she was named a third vice president of the organization. She is also a prominent member of the U. S. Daughters of 1812, Daughters of the American Colonists and the Colonial Dames of the Seventeenth Century.

IMAGINE the surprise of Mary Hill and Bruce Woodruff when they heard a chorus of honking automobile horns in the driveway of their new home on Habersham road one evening last week. Upon investigation, their surprise was even greater when they were greeted by a score of friends alighting from the cars and carrying packages of all sizes and description containing delicacies brought for an informal buffet supper tendered Mary Hill and Bruce by the self-invited guests.

The party turned out to be a huge success. That is, until Trot Foreman arose to make a speech and to present an exquisite pair of vases to Mary Hill and Bruce in behalf of the assembled group. In the midst of the presentation, Trot carelessly dropped the vases in a careless manner. The guests, of course, were in on the secret, and each one assumed a distressed expression as the vases crashed to the floor. Upon opening the box containing the broken vases the gift turned out to be to-ten-cent store china.

Imagine the joy experienced by Mary Hill and Bruce when a second package was produced in which was wrapped a pair of handsome vases of rare china for their new home.

Miss Virginia Noble Weds Mr. Gaston.

The marriage of Miss Virginia Noble, of Ellenwood, to Max Gaston, of Pittsburg, Kan., took place on January 5 in the ladies' parlor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church.

An arrangement of palms, tall baskets filled with white gladioli and snapdragons and seven-branched candelabras holding burning tapers formed a beautiful background for the bridal party.

A program of music was rendered with Miss Mary Wright as soloist.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. O. Flynn, pastor of the church, in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends. Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Noble, in Ellenwood.

The bride and groom left for Pittsburg, Kan., where they will reside in the future.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gaston, Pittsburg, Kan.; Jack Gaston, Joplin, Mo.; John Montaldo, Ossining, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Mozley, of Austell; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Waggoner, son, Ed, and Mrs. Willard Feedham, of Ellenwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Millard M. Lowry, of Atlanta, whose marriage took place recently at the First Baptist church of Cedartown. Mrs. Lowry is the former Miss Martha Elizabeth Gammon, daughter of Mrs. Mary Henderson Gammon, of Rome.

MY DAY Urban Report Proves Housing Not the Best

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON.—Yesterday was such a restful day that I felt caught up on a great many things, though I have no lack of work ahead! This morning I went to Mrs. Townsend's concert, accompanied by Madame De Los Rios, Madame Ertegun, Mrs. William Bankhead and Mrs. Littleton Hambley.

A very young violinist, whom I had never heard before, Miss Gullia Bustabo, played charmingly, but for me the joy of the morning was hearing Mr. Ernest Schelling. I always enjoy him, and this morning he played a Chopin Barcarolle which I particularly like, as well as a sonata by Cesar Franck in which Miss Bustabo joined him, which made a delightful end to the morning's music.

I was delighted to find that Mrs. Bankhead had been to see Jo Davidson's exhibit and enjoyed it as much as I did. She has also seen the exhibition of water colors at the Corcoran Art Gallery, which I hope to see soon. She tells me that though she never knew she had any talent, in the past few years she has been experimenting with painting in oil, water color and pastel, and that she enjoys her new achievement greatly. There is no doubt about it that at any age, a discovery that one can master a new type of expression is a most satisfactory feeling.

The release of Tom Mooney must bring to his friends and family not only personal satisfaction, but a great sense of vindication. It must be a curious feeling, after so many years of enforced confinement, to walk again a free man, able to make personal decisions without consulting other people. I think that the sense of being held by force in any place must be a horrible sensation. That is one reason why I have always hated to watch wild animals who seemed to resent being caged.

The WPA report on urban housing throughout the country should stimulate building, it seems to me. It certainly bears out the contention that our housing is not of the best. I feel quite sure that, if it were possible to make a similar survey of rural housing, we would find the percentage running very much along the same lines.

The contention always is that it is impossible for low-cost housing to be done by private individuals, because money cannot be borrowed at a low enough rate to make it possible. I still wonder why banks cannot make this money available at a lower interest rate. Of course, they cannot unless people become conscious of the need and are willing to have their money used in this way. After all, everything in our country is referred back to the individual, isn't it? In a democracy the individual must control the economic as well as the political situation, and he cannot do this unless he is willing to shoulder the responsibility of making up his mind about what he wants to have done and then sees to it that it is carried through.

Diet Deficient in Vitamins Will Not Maintain Health

By Dr. William Brady.

It is most desirable, of course, that the daily diet should supply the greater portion of the vitamins required to prevent deficiency derangements or, better, the more liberal rations of vitamins required to maintain or build health and vigor. But it is difficult to arrange a practical dietary today to fulfill this requirement, even when the training table is under the personal supervision and control of a competent dietitian or nutrition expert.

A famous football team in the 1938 playing season affords a good example. A physician who had examined the players suggested to the coach that it might be well to feed the men more vitamins. The coach dismissed the idea as not practical; he explained that the men were all on the rigid diet prescribed and carefully supervised by a dietitian. Nevertheless a survey of the actual daily intake of food by the men at the training table revealed that, according to the best present view of the optimal nutritional requirements, the football players were getting 20 per cent less vitamins than they should have.

Now if a university football team under the most capable dietetic supervision suffers from such a shortage, how much greater is the vitamin deficiency in the everyday diet of people who give the matter no particular thought but merely eat what they find on the bill of fare or what they like or what they believe is "nourishing," "easily digestible" or what the season or climate affords.

It is true that the greater part of the energy, the calories, in the average diet is from food which contains little or no vitamins. Less than one-third of the food consumed by the average American family is "protective" food, that is, food containing all or nearly all of the vitamins and minerals that naturally occur in the food, grow in it. These facts are recognized by nutrition authorities, but not by the rank and file of physicians in everyday practice. There are still a good many physicians who are coasting along on principles which were accepted a decade or two ago but cannot withstand analysis today. It is all very well to allude to the vitamin "fad" as a kind of passing hysteria and to blurt forth in some pretentious if humorous medical journal that a physician with a very large practice rarely sees a case in which he suspects any vitamin deficiency. But already the doctor who had the temerity to go on record with such a hasty, half-baked comment finds the medical literature filled with multitudes of cases in which doctors with just ordinary practices have diagnosed vitamin deficiencies and given their patients extraordinary help by restoring the necessary vitamins to the daily intake.

One of the best natural food sources of vitamin B complex (all of the factors or entities that occur with vitamin B) is plain wheat. Have you ever tried to buy and eat plain wheat? Still richer source of the B complex is wheat germ. Have you ever tried to buy and eat wheat germ? I mention these to give an idea of the difficulty anyone must encounter in an attempt to get even an adequate maintenance ration of vitamins in the daily food.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Dynamite. I use dynamite sometimes. Occasionally have to cut the cartridge open and handle the dynamite. Always within a few minutes I have a swell nitroglycerine headache. I don't believe dynamite is so volatile as to be inhaled in sufficient quantity... absorbed through the skin of my hands. (A. G.)

Answer.—Nitroglycerine is exceedingly volatile. Persons engaged in such work, who do not suspect the dynamite at all, are as susceptible to the characteristic effects of inhaling it as the individual who actually handles it. (Copyright, 1939, for The Constitution.)

Cary Grant Evades Query Concerning His Romance

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 10.—Barbara Stanwyck has been driven from her Northridge ranch by the hordes of tourists who made privacy impossible for her. Barbara has purchased a home in Bel Air and will reserve the ranch as a place of business only (raising horses). Robert Taylor, however, continues to live in the valley. (His house is less accessible for those peace-deceiving visitors.)

Rosaling Russell is going places with Pat Weaver, tobacco magnate from the east. "He came thousands of miles to meet me," says Miss Russell. "So I have to give him a little of my time." Talking about romance. Someone said to Cary Grant at his New Year's party, "This time next year, will it be Mr. and Mrs. Grant?" To which Cary replied somberly, "Who can tell?" now, what would you make of a reply like that?

Joan Fontaine says she parted from boy-friend Conrad Nagel because he was too possessive (all males please note). Joan, by the way, has saved enough money to spend one year in New York, to which city she will shortly go for a stage job.

Ditto Warren William, who hopes to be discovered all over again via a Broadway show. And it is an interesting fact that, since Madame Evans appeared in a New York play, she has received four film offers. Christmas echo. Someone placed a Christmas tree loaded with gifts in front of Jean Harlow's crypt in Forest Lawn.

Claudette Colbert says she wants to come back to America and make pictures. (Her last five all had foreign locales.)

Charlie Chaplin wants Pauline Goddard as his leading lady in "The Dictator," but Pauline is not as keen on the idea. Her last picture for Charlie took three years to complete. Pauline wants to build herself a screen reputation, to do which she must make at least three pictures a year. . . . Meanwhile, Vivien Leigh's tests for Scarlett O'Hara are said to have brought ecstasy to the patient soul of David O. Selznick. If Miss Leigh does get the part, Pauline will be the most disappointed girl in Hollywood.

Fred Astaire is insisting on retakes for all scenes in "The Castles" that are not quite 100 per cent perfect. This may be Fred's last picture in Hollywood, and he wants to go out in a blaze of triumph. . . . Bette Davis' black wig in "Yankee" cost the studio $2,500. The hair of 14 women went into it. . . . Errol Flynn says he will have two prizes in his about-to-be-constructed dude ranch in Utah. The lady guests on the 1,600-acre resort will pay less than the males of the species. I'm not sure that gallantry is good for business. Errol, but, on behalf of the women, I thank you. . . . Robert Donat's asthma has been described as "psychological" whatever that means. . . . Gary Cooper has gained 15 pounds—some of it in his face, which makes him more gorgeous-looking than ever.

Dick Powell has been offered $10,000 per week for a 12 weeks' personal appearance tour. It's a lot of money, and Dick's "no" is getting a trifle weak. . . . If Marlene Dietrich does not get a film offer within the next month, she goes back to France to make a picture in Paris. Her French salary will be about half the $250,000 she formerly received for her Hollywood output. Cecil B. De Mille recently had such a bad spell of coughing on the set that—in his own words—he did not know whether he was directing "Union Pacific"—or "Camille."

His Girl Says She's Sorry, Then Dissappoints Him Again

By Caroline Chatfield.

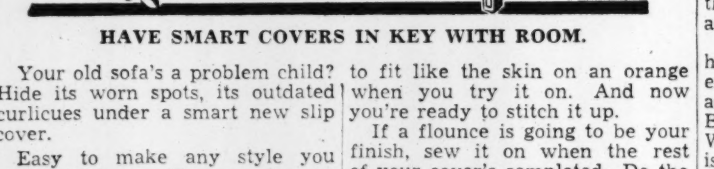

Dear Miss Chatfield: I am entirely at a loss to understand my girl. She tells me that she loves me; but the night after she had promised to marry me, she went out with another man and got drunk. Then she was sorry for it. I forgave her, have been patient and kind to her, always ready at any time to help her and be good to her. I love her. When she lets me see her we always enjoy a dinner and dance and go home early. This will go on for a few weeks, then she will go out again with a different fellow and get drunk, come home late, get sick, wrangle with her parents and tell me again that she is sorry. Then it all happens again and again. Always sorry afterwards, and still tells me that she loves me. I'm not a drinking man, but never go out with other girls, but love to dance and entertain her. When a man is honest, sincere, trustworthy and dependable, should he not, at least, get an even break.

Answer: Yes, a fellow should get an even break from his girl; but when is a girl HIS girl? Until she loves him. Now young man, there are two reasons why you can never get an even break from this particular maiden: to begin with she doesn't love you and to end with she hasn't it in her to play the game squarely. She's weak, addicted to the bottle, unable to keep a promise, incapable of loyalty and altogether lacking in qualities that tend to take the gamble out of marriage.

I used to hear an old gentleman say that he was wary of these people who were very quick to admit their wrong doing and very quick to add: "I'm sorry," because he noted that they always repeated and repented, repeated and repented with equal facility. That certainly goes for a girl who runs out on her fiancé, double crosses him with other fellows, gets tight periodically and returns to say she's sorry—until the next opportunity turns up. What sort of a sap is he to forgive, forget, believe in her and to toy with the thought of tying his life's happiness to such a slender thread as her promises?

Perhaps it's true that a man seldom understands a girl in the sense that a man understands another man or a girl another girl; but every man should know that love brings out the best that's in a woman and if what comes out isn't satisfactory, either she's not in love with him or there's nothing good in her. In either event he can't get an even break from her. CAROLINE CHATFIELD. (Copyright, 1939, for The Constitution.)

Smart Covers for Your Living Room

Have smart covers in key with room. Your old sofa's a problem child? Hide its worn spots, its outdated curlicues under a smart new slip cover.

Easy to make any style you want—in tune with your decorative scheme—the pinway. Your room's gaily informal? For your cover, use a colorful flowered fabric, a pretty flounce for a finish. Modern? Diagonal stripes and deep fringe are stunning. Formal? Get a tailored, "upholstered" look with suave neutral tones, outline seams with moss trimming.

To make any cover, just smooth fabric right down the back and over the seat, leaving a four-inch tuck-in between back and seat. Anchor fabric with pins and snip off the extra material, leaving 1 1/2 inches for seams. For glove-like fit over sides and back, pin material the same way. Make paper patterns to guide you in cutting the fronts of the arms. When everything is pinned, take off the slip cover and baste. If you've worked carefully, it ought

Look to Figure in Middle Thirties

By Ida Jean Kain.

If you wanted to be pessimistic about the whole thing, we would come right out and call them "the threatening thirties," "the dangerous forties," and "the dumpy fifties."

Once you're past 30, you have to hang on to your looks with sheer determination. Unless you give it some encouragement, your circulation—which is the basis of your beauty—slows up. And then what? Plenty . . . the tissues lose their firmness, and muscles sag and drag the skin down with them. That clear-cut throat contour desintegrates into double chins and makes it obvious that you're "getting along."

In the middle thirties the figure begins to run to waist—but definitely! You have to put up a strong defense to keep from slipping into what is known as the middle-aged spread.

Then in the dangerous forties a pad of fat comes from out of the blue and perches on the back of your neck. And there it stays. More fat pads settle on the backs of the upper arms. Your hips take in a bit more territory. In time you lose your figure completely—and arrive at the dumpy fifties!

But let's take a case where all that has happened to a woman. . . . Let's have her 30 pounds overweight and with the padding of fat layered on all the vulnerable places. You think she can't ever get her figure back? Well, she can't. There's a remedy that will make her over, and it is the combination of diet and exercise. In the first place, she must diet to draw on the stored fat.

If you were to figure this diet out mathematically on the calorie basis, you would find that it takes about six months on the 1,200-calorie diet to reduce 30 pounds. In the first month, eight pounds could be lost, in the second six pounds, in the third five or six pounds, in the fourth month probably four pounds, and during the last two months of the struggle about three pounds each month.

If yours is too, too too solid flesh, of course, you lose more slowly. And if you are plagued with winter ailments, you might not register any loss for the first 10 days or even the first two weeks, since, as the weight is lost it is replaced with water. Water retention has nothing to do with the amount of water you drink.

In addition to dieting, you must exercise to change loose, flabby fat to nice firm muscle tissue, banish the fat pads, and get a new and trimmer set of measurements. While you can never reduce faster than two pounds per week, you can knock off the inches at a pretty fast clip.

And don't stop with general exercise, or even special exercise for the waist and hips. . . . Every woman needs chin exercises. If you seem to be inclined to lose weight in the face and throat first, you should take all your exercises with the hips propped up on a pillow, heels higher than the head. Any of the exercises for hips and waist which are performed on the floor can also be done in this position.

Superb Night Cream for Patting Away Flaky Roughness of Dry Skin

By LILLIAN MAE.

This is the season when your skin suffers more than at any other, from drying winds and pinching cold; the season when artificially heated houses refuse to allow your complexion to retain the moisture so necessary to a much desired petal-soft smoothness. What are you doing about it?

There are creams designed for the purpose of restoring the dried-out oils while doing their job of softening and nourishing. One, the formula of which was developed by a woman for women, is a joy to use. It is easily patted into the skin and you can almost feel it dissolving flakiness and roughness, as that drawn, creepy feeling gives way to one of youthful relaxation.

After you've patted it into your thoroughly cleansed skin before retiring, for a few nights, you'll see and feel what a remarkable job it really has done and how with it, it is entirely unnecessary to let the weather make you look like an old woman.

I couldn't wait to tell you about this very lovely cream, because for a very limited time, I find the regular-sized jar is on sale for less than half of the ordinary price. Wonder if you, like I, will

Learn to Know Furniture By Period

By Elizabeth McRae Boykin.

It's easy to confuse Sheraton and Hepplewhite furniture. They are first cousins, so to speak, as both cabinet makers worked at the same time in London. It was natural that both should fall under the same influences of taste, styles, woods available. But as you learn more about them, their separate personalities emerge and soon you will learn to sense the differences at a glance. In studying them, it's a good idea to take up chairs first because they are so typical.

Daintier. Generally speaking, Hepplewhite chairs are more dainty, more curving, more feminine in line than those of Sheraton. The shield back is the most familiar characteristic of Hepplewhite's chairs and the line of the top of the chair is unbroken. (When Sheraton crossed the shield back, he broke the line across the top.) The Hepplewhite chair back almost never reaches the seat but is supported by the back posts (like a picture on an easel). The Prince of Wales's feathers are a most familiar motif for Hepplewhite chairs. About wheat, ferns and flowers were also favorite details. Legs are invariably slender and usually straight with spade feet.

George Hepplewhite himself died two years before the book on furniture designs, signed by him, was published. But his shop was continued by Alice Hepplewhite, his widow. Just how much she had to do with the designs and whether her hand may have had something to do with the delicacy and femininity of the furniture is a question. Actually, it is the book that inspires most of the contemporary reproductions of the style we call Hepplewhite.

Rectangular Chair Backs. As for Sheraton, he evolved a chair every bit as graceful as that of Hepplewhite, but of more sturdy construction. And so a chair of his design usually has the unbroken line from the floor to the top of the back, and the back itself has a cross rail to brace it firmly just above the seat. The rectangular back is his most usual form, and you will often find horizontal bars as the theme of the design—but Sheraton also used urns, a swag of drapery for his chair back designs. The legs are slender, too, and either round or square.

It's improbable that Sheraton

Bridge Teacher Answers Questions

By Harold Sharpsteen.

Atlanta, Ga.
"Dear Mr. Sharpsteen: Will you please answer the following questions for me. Thanking you in advance, I am
"Sincerely,
"Mrs. J. L. Cochran."

(1) If declarer, sitting in South position, plays from her hand and the dummy hand at the same time, is the person in East position privileged to play, even though West has not?

(2) If there is a revoke on the third trick played and none of the players notice or call it, can the dummy call the revoke at the end of the play? The revoke was not made by declarer.

PLAY OUT OF TURN.
Answer: (1) When declarer inadvertently plays a card from dummy hand before play at the left of dummy has played in turn, defender at the right of dummy may, if he chooses, play before defending partner plays. This bad habit of playing dummy's cards before left-hand opponent has played in turn, can often result in the unnecessary loss of tricks.

DUMMY SPEAKS.
Answer: (2) Declarer's partner has the right to call attention to a defender's irregularity as outlined above.

This design is simplicity itself. Yet it has a lot of dash and charm. It is a particularly good example of the youthful type in women's sizes. Just by a skilful use of darts, the bodice achieves fullness over the bust, and a slim waistline. It's exactly what you want right now, for general wear, under your heavy winter coat, and it will be exactly as good in the spring, with a fur jacket or fur scarf. The high shoulders and the flared skirt are increasingly popular. Therefore this is a design you will certainly use time and again, especially since it's so easy to make.

You'll enjoy having it in wool crepe, jersey, flannel, flat crepe, or silk put in a tailored pattern. Wear a heavy metal necklace with it, or a contrasting Ascot scarf.

Officers and Gifts Announced By Eggleston Hospital Auxiliary

The announcement of several gifts to aid in the maintenance of Eggleston Hospital for Children, the election of officers and the outline of plans for the main fundraising enterprise of the year were features of the annual meeting of the Eggleston Hospital Auxiliary, held Monday at the nurses' home.

Mrs. Frank Lamons was re-elected president; Mesdames Robert Pegram, Beverly Dubose and Jesse Draper were named vice presidents; Mrs. Kenneth Campbell, recording secretary; Mrs. Paul Hultish, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. E. P. Tuttle, treasurer. Appointed to serve as chairman and co-chairmen of the Eggleston tour of Atlanta homes and gardens, which will take place April 1, 2 and 3 as a part of the state-wide pilgrimage of the Garden Club of Georgia, were Mesdames Dubose, Draper and Pegram.

The president in her annual report expressed appreciation for gifts made during the past year and announced how valuable they had been in trying on the work of the hospital, which is faced with the problem of providing 40 per cent of the cost of current maintenance to augment the present endowment. The ways and means chairman, Mrs. Albert Thornton, stressed the necessity of additional funds to take care of the increased number of patients and stated that of the 1,200 children cared for during 1938, approximately 900 were either unable to pay anything for hospitalization or were able to pay only a very small proportion of the cost of medical care.

Miss Jesse Candlish, superintendent of the hospital, announced that every bed had been filled throughout the year and that the limited facilities made it impossible to take care of many who applied and were in need of the services of the hospital, which is the only one in Atlanta that receives certain cases of children who are ineligible for any other institution.

Miss Candlish also announced that 22 children had been cared for in the two beds provided by the Service Guild Group and Omnibus. Mrs. Gordon Kiser, representing the service group, stated that the organization would endow the two beds during 1939 and that $2,000 had been sent to the trustees for this purpose.

Mrs. Hultish, sewing chairman, reported that 2,033 garments and household supplies had been made by the 16 sewing committees who work regularly at the hospital. The active organizations assisting in this work include Saint Catherine's Guild of Saint Luke's, Aletta Mikell Chapter, All Saints Guild, four circles of the Druid Hills Presbyterian church, the Saint Cecilia Guild, and circles of the Westminster Presbyterian, Covenant Presbyterian, Central Presbyterian, Liberal Christian, Central Presbyterian, Holy Trinity and Druid Hills Baptist churches.

Christmas gifts and stockings were provided by the Junior League, Forrest Avenue school, Camp Fire Girls, Grade 3 of Couch school, Grade P-8, Boys High, a group of insurance men and by several individuals.

A gift of $250 for painting the Junior League ward, in addition to the league's annual contribution for maintenance, a laryngoscope from the Phi Pi sorority, a gift of $150 by the Atlanta baseball club, maintenance of the garden by the Cherokee Garden Club and other gifts by individuals were also acknowledged by the president.

Pictured above is a group of guests who attended the luncheon at which Mr. and Mrs. Frank Freeman were hosts in Hollywood, Cal., on the day following the Tech-University of California football game. The affair honored members of the Tech team, and assembled a number of screen celebrities. Seated, from left to right, are Mrs. Murdoch Eucken, of Atlanta; Screen Star Francis Lederer and Mrs. Frank Freeman. Standing, from left to right, are Joel McCrea, film idol; Frank Freeman and Frank Freeman Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Freeman, former Atlantans, now reside in Hollywood, where Mr. Freeman is a prominent executive in the film industry.

Miss Neal Weds Thomas Haygood

SYLACAUGA, Ala., Jan. 10.—The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Neal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Neal, to Thomas Haygood, of Atlanta, was quietly solemnized December 26 at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. S. C. Lumpkin, in Ensley.

Mrs. J. R. Rountree sang, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. J. K. Pratt.

The bride entered with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a modish traveling suit of teal blue wool, silver fox trimmed. Fuchsia accessories with a similar shade of rosebuds in the shoulder cluster completed the ensemble.

Dr. A. B. Townsend served as best man. The marriage service was ready by Rev. Albert Branscomb.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Atlanta, and they will return by the way of Sylacauga and Birmingham. They plan to make their home in Greenwood, Miss.

Mrs. Haygood is a graduate of Ensley High school. Mr. Haygood attended Sevanee and was graduated from the University of Georgia, where he was a member of the football team. He was a member of the Sigma Epsilon fraternity, and is connected in business with the American Chic Company with headquarters in Greenwood.

COSTER'S BROTHERS ENTER GUILTY PLEA

3 Pledge Co-operation With Government in Probe of $11,000,000 Fraud.

NEW YORK, Jan. 10.—(AP)—F. Donald Coster-Musica's three brothers pleaded guilty in federal court today to charges linking them with the financial trickery he practiced to defraud the McKesson & Robbins drug firm of an estimated $11,000,000 in the 12 years he was its president.

They were accused of violating the securities act of 1934 in connection with the filing of false financial statements with the New York Stock Exchange and the Securities and Exchange Commission—the charge, the brother said, when he committed suicide December 16 in his Fairfield (Conn.) home.

Even while United States Attorney Lamar Hardy was assuring Federal Judge Murray Hulbert that the three brothers had promised to co-operate with the government in its investigation of the multiple phases of the scandal, testimony was being offered elsewhere showing the Coster-Musica defalcations totaled $4,203,700 in 1930, and were close to $2,000,000 even in the depression year of 1932.

The figures were presented by Jacob Roggen, senior accountant in the office of State Attorney General John J. Bennett Jr., at a hearing conducted by Assistant Attorney General Ambrose V. McCall.

Roggen made an extensive McKesson & Robbins examination in the month since it was disclosed that the firm's crude drug department's assets included fictitious millions. He said Coster-Musica was able to steal so much

U. S. Bar Association Cracks Down On Mail Order Divorce 'Scandal'

House of Delegates Votes To Sponsor Bill in Congress Making It a Crime for Lawyers To Solicit Such Business.

CHICAGO, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The American Bar Association recommended today it be made a crime for lawyers to engage in the mail-order divorce business. Informed that in some states the solicitation of divorce cases by mail had become almost scandalous, the association's house of delegates voted to sponsor in congress a bill prohibiting the practice and providing maximum punishment of a year in jail and $1,000 fine.

The measure was recommended by the association's committee on professional ethics and grievances, headed by Dean H. W. Arant, of Ohio State University's law school.

"The solicitation of divorce business by lawyers in one or two states has for some time been almost a scandal," Dean Arant declared. "As divorce laws are made more lenient from state to state, the scope of this form of solicitation widens. First it was Nevada, then Wyoming and most recently Florida."

Arant reiterated the opinion of his committee that "the degree to which such solicitation exists constitutes an evil that requires strong action in the public interest."

The association's committee on judicial salaries was instructed to consider and submit to the house proposals for "legislation making proper and adequate increases in the compensation." Federal district judges now receive $10,000 a year. The salary of federal circuit judges is $12,500 a year.

There was an attack on the association's bill of rights committee in the final hours of the meeting, but it was squelched by the chair.

Last month the committee took a court stand against Mayor Frank Hague, of Jersey City, by filing a brief in the United States circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia supporting a lower court decision that the mayor had unconstitutionally suppressed free speech and assembly.

Robert Carey, of Jersey City, tried to present a resolution limiting the committee's scope in such matters. He was ruled out of order.

JURY RESUMES QUIZ IN RECTORY SLAYING

'Surprise' Witnesses Called in Glynn Probe of Island Murder.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Jan. 10.—(AP)—New witnesses were called today by a grand jury investigating the slaying of Dr. Charles H. Lee, Christ church rector, and the investigating body was not expected to complete its inquiry until tomorrow.

Solicitor Glenn Thomas said the grand jury had called several "surprise" witnesses today after hearing testimony from other witnesses previously questioned.

Dr. Lee was killed by a bullet fired through a window of the rectory on St. Simons Island last February.

Police said George Clebyorn, negro, confessed he fired the fatal shot and stated he was hired by Henry and W. H. Coker, brothers, who operated a club on the island. The negro repudiated the statement.

Witnesses appearing before the grand jury included two Macon detectives and Mrs. Carrie Stevens, who, police said, gave clues leading to the arrest of Clebyorn and the Coker brothers.

STAMP COLLECTING IS FASCINATING

Stamps depict or commemorate the progress of mankind, illustrating the activities, occupations and environments of the human race. The hobby of collecting them began about 1850, and today millions of people collect stamps. Collectors in the United States include everybody from school boys and girls to the President of the United States who owns a very fine collection. If you intend to join the ranks of devotees to this hobby, send the coupon below, with a dime enclosed, for our Service Bureau Booklet, "Stamp Collecting," which is filled with information on how to begin and build up a collection.

CLIP COUPON HERE:

PUPPET ADVOCATES PEACE WITH JAPAN

Head of Chinese 'Reformed Government' Appeals to Unconquered Provinces.

SHANGHAI, Jan. 10.—(AP)—Wen Tsung-yao, president of the legislative council of the "reformed government of China" at Nanking, appealed today for peace with Japan.

The appeal coincided with a mass air attack on Chungking, provisional Chinese capital nearly 1,400 miles up the Yangtze river, and bitter fighting in the Hangchow sector southwest of Shanghai, in southwestern Shansi province and west of Hankow.

In a statement circulated by Domei, the Japanese news agency, Wen asked nine unconquered provinces to agree to peace terms laid down December 22 by Prince Fumimaro Kono, then Japanese premier.

(Kono's proposed peace based on continued Japanese occupation of strategic points in China "as an anti-Communist measure." Chinese adherence to the Japanese-Italian-German anti-Comintern pact, establishment of Inner Mongolia as a special anti-Communist territory, and China's acceptance of a place in a Japan-Manchoukuo-China economic, political and cultural bloc.)

NATHAN E. ORY, 56, DIES; RITES TODAY

Was 32d Degree Mason and Former Anniston Chamber Director.

Nathan Edward Ory, 56, retired Anniston, Ala., businessman and a resident of Atlanta for the past three years, died yesterday. He lived at 1116 Rosedale drive.

He was formerly a director of the Chambers of Commerce there and a member of Temple Beth El. He was a 32d degree Mason.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jennie L. Ory; three sons, Albert Ory, of Worcester, Mass., and Randolph and Marvin Ory, both of Atlanta; two daughters, Mrs. William Ory, both of Birmingham, and four sisters, Mrs. Goldie Cohen, of Birmingham; Mrs. M. H. Kesler, of Atlanta; Mrs. B. S. Haisfield, of Griffin, and Mrs. M. S. Haisfield, of Dallas, Texas.

Funeral services were conducted at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the chapel of Sam R. Greenberg & Company by Rabbi Harry Epstein and Cantor H. J. Paskin. Burial will be in Greenwood cemetery.

ELLSWORTH FINDS MINERAL DEPOSIT

Weather Keeps Explorer Grounded at Antarctica. By LINCOLN ELLSWORTH, Leader Fourth Ellsworth Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1939, by The Constitution and the North American News-Service.)

ON BOARD MOTORSHIP WYATT EARP, Jan. 8.—(By Wireless)—I am still waiting at the edge of the ice for fine weather in which to make a flight into the unknown section of the Antarctic.

Although we did not flying, we were not idle, for we had an opportunity to visit some other of the unexplored islands in this vicinity and made some most interesting geological discoveries.

One of the islands in particular is highly mineralized. Veins of copper, iron, and quartz, highly impregnated with a mineral strongly resembling either lead or zinc predominate. As far as I am aware, this is the first discovery of actual mineral to be found on this side of Antarctica.

Early Saturday morning we had to move the ship with all dispatch, for a blizzard, which seemed to be around not far from where we tied up, suddenly started to move and threatened to hem us into the ice.

CUTTER SPEEDING TO SAVE COLONIST

U. S. Employee Stricken on Pacific Island.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—(AP)—The coast guard cutter Roger B. Taney made its second race with death today to isolated Jarvis Island in the mid-Pacific. It carried Honolulu surgeons to perform an appendectomy on Manuel Pires, colonist.

In October the same boat sailed the 1,500 miles under forced draft in an unsuccessful attempt to save the life of another Hawaiian colonist, Karl Kahalewai, also stricken with appendicitis.

Pires is one of four Hawaiians employed by the United States in colonization work on Jarvis Island, which has been selected as a stop-over place for airplanes.
